

SEN. LA FOLLETTE PREVENTS VOTE

Wisconsin Senator Attacks General Preparedness Program

EXPECT VOTE TODAY

Oliver and Penrose Make Unsuccessful Fight on Section Providing for Armor Plant

INCREASES UNWARRANTED

WASHINGTON, July 19.—An attack by Senator LaFollette on the general preparedness program as the product of agitation by moneyed interests aided by the metropolitan press, prevented a final vote in the senate today on the naval bill. The Wisconsin senator had not completed his speech when the senate adjourned tonight and did not indicate how long he planned to continue. The general belief, however, was that a vote would be reached tomorrow.

Most of today was taken up with an unsuccessful fight by Senators Oliver and Penrose on the section of the bill providing for a $11,000,000 government armor plant.

Senator LaFollette contended vigorously that neither conditions confronting the nation nor the testimony given before the congressional naval committees warranted the proposed navy increases.

"A total of $844,000,000 is the load that goes on the backs of the American people," he declared, "why is this to be done? If it is necessary now, why was it not necessary four years ago? You knew then what was the naval and military strength of all foreign countries. But he interests had not been appealed to then. Bethlehem Steel at 40 was not Bethlehem Steel at 840."

The senator charged that men had been forced into preparedness parades under threats of having their wages reduced. Working men in Washington he said had told him they marched in the demonstration here for that reason. The larger newspapers of the country, he declared were influenced by the advertising of the "interests" behind the preparedness propaganda to devote most space to the testimony of witnesses before the congressional committees who favored preparations.

"A cheap skate of a business man can get a column and a half on the front page if he will boost preparations," he shouted. "But General Weaver who speaks against it cannot get a line. It costs something to say that, but for some years I have stood ready to pay the price."

Senator LaFollette insisted that this nation's navy is stronger than Germany's navy, and pointed out that Germany with a navy about half as large as England's, has been able to prevent an invasion of her territory.

FEDERAL JUDGE HAND DISMISSES MARSHALL'S HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

NEW YORK, July 19.—United States Attorney H. Snowden Marshall was technically in the custody of Robert D. Gordon, sergeant at arms of the house of representatives after his writ of habeas corpus preventing his removal to Washington to answer for alleged contempt of the house, was dismissed by Federal Judge Hand. Mr. Gordon is still in the city however, and Mr. Marshall is not actually in his charge.

After a conference with his attorney, former United States Senator announced that he would at once file with Judge Hand an application for a stay of execution which will enable him to appeal in the supreme court of the United States. Should the stay be refused Mr. Marshall will go to Washington voluntarily. In his decision, Judge Hand held that the house of representatives acted within its rights in voting Mr. Marshall in contempt on the ground that his criticism of the house was made public during an investigation into charges against Representative Frank Buchanan and others because of their connection with labor's national peace council.

BAND OF VILLISTAS ATTACKS MEXICAN TRAIN

BANDITS ARE BEATEN OFF AND EIGHT OF THEM ARE CAPTURED

Prisoners Taken to Chihuahua City for Trial by Court Martial—Band Sad to Number Less Than a Score.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, July 19.—A band of Villistas attacked a train on the Mexico Northwestern near Santa Ysabel about 50 miles west of here yesterday, according to a report to General Jacinto Trevino today. The bandits were beaten off and eight of them who were captured were brought here today for trial by court martial. The band was said to number less than a score.

The prisoners, who said they were members of a band commanded by Martin Lopez, asserted they had been cut off from the main Villa army after the recent fight at Jimenez and were on their way to the Big Bend district of Texas.

Reports to General Trevino today from Colonel Kiojas at Ojinaga said that he had completed arrangements to repel the reported advance of a band of two hundred Villistas upon the American border in that vicinity. He added that he had information that the outlaws have connections in the United States from which they expect to obtain what supplies and ammunition they need.

Reports from the south were meagre but indicated that the campaign against the main Villista band along the Rio Florida, under General Matias Ramos is progressing favorably.

The exact location of the government forces he did not disclose. Later despatches from Ojinaga, said that Captain A. V. Anderson, commanding the American garrison at Presidio, Texas, has assured Colonel Kiojas of the preparedness of his command in the event of a Villista attack, upon the American border.

General Trevino today ordered that Santiago Ramirez, formerly Villista governor of Coahuila face the firing squad tomorrow as a result of his recent conviction by court martial of several murders.

Dispatches were received today from Carranza authorizing that every guarantee of protection be given the Alvarado Mining and Milling company, an American concern with properties at Parral.

Six Federal Troops Killed.

El Paso, Texas, July 19.—Six government soldiers were killed in the Villista attack upon a Carrancista supply train at Palamos, Chihuahua, Monday, according to private despatches here today. The despatches conflicted with previous reports which indicated the attack took place yesterday.

Reports here said that a band of outlaws under Nicholas Hernandez is operating in the vicinity of Palamos, 15 miles east of Santa Ysabel. It is believed that the remnant of the band under Martin Lopez may effect a junction with his command.

Despatches said that the Villistas had been able to seize none of the supplies and indicate that their dead numbered seven. Several days ago a train carrying a small detachment of defacto soldiers was fired into near Palamos by bandits. The Villistas wounded six of the soldiers including a captain, reports said.

POSTMASTERS HEAR ADDRESSES DELIVERED BY SCORE OF SPEAKERS

Cover Wide Field of Postal Service Problems and Develop Numerous Digressions into Partisan Politics

Washington, July 19.—The national association of postmasters heard addresses today by a score of speakers, headed by Postmaster General Burleson, covering a wide field of postal service problems and developing numerous digressions into partisan politics which drew a reprimand from Postmaster Selph of St. Louis, president of the association. Prospects of one cent letter postage were outlined by Mr. Burleson, who did not touch on political subjects. He said that should second class mail rates be increased, the cost of mail transportation lowered, initial steps could be taken next year toward reduction of the letter rate. His reference to second class rates was taken to indicate that the department was planning readjustment of charges on magazines and similar publications.

Several postmasters advocated extension of automobile collection and delivery service both in city and on rural routes.

Government ownership of such motors was urged.

Tomorrow officers will be elected and the convention will close with a banquet at which President Wilson will speak.

War News Summarized

There has been no abatement in the struggle between the British and Germans north of the Somme which began Tuesday after a German bombardment and an attack by heavy infantry forces which gave to the Teutons part of Longueval and Delville wood.

In counter-attacks the British succeeded in regaining most of the territory they had lost. Hard fighting is still going on in this section. South of the Somme the French report the capture of several German trenches. Around Verdun the Germans are heavily bombarding the French positions.

Russians in the vicinity of Riga are hammering hard with infantry and artillery Field Marshall Von Hindenburg's forces, but according to Berlin all their attacks thus far have failed with heavy losses.

In Volhynia, the Russians are heavily bombarding the positions of the Teutonic allies. While Petrograd asserts that the Russians in Galicia are advancing toward the passes of the Carpathian mountains leading to the plains of Hungary, Vienna says that southwest of Delatyn Austrians have driven the Russians back across the river Pruth.

German naval aircraft have dropped a large number of bombs on Reval in the gulf of Finland, causing, according to Berlin, damage to Russian cruisers, troop boats and submarines in the gulf and to military establishments on land.

In Asia Minor, south of Trebizond, additional gains for the Russians against the Turks are chronicled by Petrograd while Constantinople reports slight successes for Turkish arms against the British along the Euphrates river and north of the Persian Gulf near Basra. In addition, the Turks are declared to have defeated the Italians in northern Tripoli at Misratah.

HOLD BALL IN STATE CAPITOL FOR BENEFIT OF GUARDSMEN'S FAMILIES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Governor and Mrs. Dunne led one line of the grand march at a military ball in the state capitol here tonight the object of which was to raise funds for the care of families of militiamen now at the Mexican border. The other line of the grand march was led by Col. S. O. Tripp, quartermaster commissary of the I. N. G., and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago. Secretary of State and Mrs. Lewis G. Stevenson and State Auditor and Mrs. James J. Brady were in the line with the governor. Many of the members of Company C, Fifth Regiment, I. N. G., were present in uniform.

The ball was the first held in the state house since the inauguration of the late John P. Altgeld as governor in 1893.

MAKE PROGRESS IN NEGOTIATIONS

To Announce Course to Be Followed in Mexican Parley "Very Soon"

CONFEREES MEET TWICE

Ambassador-Designate Fletcher Attends Both Sessions Held By Polk and Arredondo

REPORTS TO MEXICO

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Preliminary negotiations between Acting Secretary Polk and Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, for peaceful settlement of border difficulties progressed so well today that a formal announcement "very soon" as to the course to be followed was predicted officially.

The conferees met twice today. Later Mr. Arredondo telegraphed a report to his government and Mr. Polk prepared a similar report for Secretary Lansing and probably will talk the situation over with President Wilson tomorrow.

Fletcher at Both Conferences.

Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador-designate to Mexico, was at both conferences. It is understood the discussions dealt particularly with the powers to be conferred upon a probable joint commission. While the American commissioners have not been selected, officials said that Mr. Fletcher would not be among them, as had been reported, because it might impair his diplomatic usefulness.

It is understood Mr. Fletcher will go to his post in Mexico City soon after Secretary Lansing returns from his vacation about August 1, providing the favorable turn of events beyond the border continues. At the same time, Mr. Arredondo will be formally received by President Wilson as ambassador from the Republic of Mexico and formal diplomatic relations be restored.

State department officials said today they had no information as to when General Pershing's troops would be withdrawn from Mexico. There have been intimations that one of the subjects discussed by Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo was whether the question of withdrawal of the troops should be submitted to the joint commission. Since the Washington government has made it plain that the troops would retire whenever Carranza troops could insure the security of the border, it appears probable that Mr. Polk thought it unnecessary for the commission to go into that subject and so informed Mr. Arredondo.

Receive Dispatch From Pershing.

A dispatch from General Pershing today saying that General Gonzales had conferred with him as to reports of the seizure of the Hearst ranch in Chihuahua and then had proceeded to investigate. The case was viewed here as further evidence of the conciliatory attitude of all Carranza officials.

The war department announced today a further relaxation of the unofficial embargo imposed at the border when the Mexican emergency became acute. Coal, coke and gasoline for industrial purposes and household goods now will be permitted to pass into Mexico, the announcement said in reasonable quantities. Food and clothing have been going in for several weeks.

CHICAGO FORGING AHEAD IN DEAL FOR HERZOG'S SERVICES

CINCINNATI, O., July 19.—Chicago is fast forging ahead in the deal for the services of Charles Herzog, manager of the Cincinnati National League club. President Weeghman's offer of Outfielder Flack and $25,000 is the most acceptable of any of the offers that have been made, according to President Hermann of the local club. Mr. Hermann has decided to allow the remainder of the season and for this reason he does not want Mathewson of the New York club. Manager McGraw of the Giants is expected to arrive here tomorrow and present a new offer. Charles Ebbels, president of the Brooklyn club arrived here today and conferred with Mr. Hermann. It was said that he made an offer for Herzog which was refused.

TREASURE HUNTERS PUT IN TO PORT FOR REPAIRS

Newport News, Va., July 19.—The fleet of deep sea treasure-hunting ships which will seek to recover the million dollars' worth of silver bullion aboard the sunken Spanish steamer Merida put into Newport News today for repairs. The treasure-hunters expect to start operations within a week.

ERNEST BROOKS KILLS MRS. THOMAS GOVAN

MEETS OFFICER MOORE ON STREET AND TELLS HIM OF CRIME

Murderer Slashes Colored Woman's Throat at Her Home on Broadway Alley at Early Hour This Morning—Inquest Will Be Held Today.

Mrs. Thomas Govan, 337 Broadway alley was murdered at an early hour this morning. Ernest Brooks who boarded at the Govan home is under arrest in the city prison, charged with wielding the razor which brought Mrs. Govan to her death.

It is said by children of Mrs. Govan that Brooks intended to leave, probably today. Mrs. Govan was found on the back porch of her home with a deep razor wound in the throat and deep cuts about the chest.

The fact that other occupants of the house were not awakened and that the police were on the scene before the murder was known to the household leads to the belief that the assault was made while the victim slept.

Brooks has for the past week been working for Charles Lewis on the Strawn farm, southwest of the city. Last Saturday he had quarreled with Wesley Chapel, son-in-law of Mrs. Govan, but beyond this there was no trouble of any kind.

Other occupants of the house were Miss Rhoda Sallee, a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Chapel, Mrs. Naomi Kibby of Springfield, a sister of Mrs. Govan and Brooks, himself who had boarded with the family for several months.

Brooks was last seen by members of the family about 9:30 o'clock, when in company with John Sallee, a son, he walked to the hamburger stand on Lafayette avenue to buy a sandwich for Mrs. Govan. His talk contained no indication of criminal intent.

Brooks Surrendered to Officer.

When Officer Moore was making his regular beat on North West street, Brooks came running along the street in a very excited condition. In answer to the officer's question the man declared that he had killed a woman and directed the officer to the Govan home. The officer went with Brooks and there found the body of Mrs. Govan on the porch, the head almost severed from the body. Even then members of the family were not aware of what had happened and evidently Mrs. Govan had been murdered as she slept and had made no outcry or struggle.

Officer Moore took Brooks to police headquarters and notified Capt. Sharpe of the crime. An ambulance was called and the body was removed to the Reynolds undertaking rooms where an inquest will be held today.

Brooks seemed to be laboring under great mental stress made no effort to deny the killing even after he was behind the prison bars. He admitted that he had slashed the woman's throat but refused to explain the act. From other sources it was learned that Brooks had been attentive to Mrs. Govan and that she had let him know that she preferred another. Jealousy therefore furnished the motive for this crime, committed in cold blood and a drink crazed mind supplemented the jealousy.

Came Here From Missouri.

Mrs. Govan who had been a resident of Jacksonville for about seventeen years came here from Fulton, Mo. She was the daughter of Jack Jordan of Fulton. Her first husband was Ben Sallee from whom she was divorced. Later she was married to Tom Govan and the family home has been on Broadway Alley. Govan for years conducted a lunch room and hamburger stand at the corner of North West street and Lafayette avenue. Last March Govan was in St. Louis and was killed during an altercation there.

YANKEES SHIP BASEBALL

SUPPLIES TO GUARDSMEN

NEW YORK, July 19.—The New York American League club has shipped a supply of baseballs, bats and other baseball paraphernalia to camp of the 71st regiment, New York National Guard at McAllen, Texas, it was announced by the club tonight. This action was taken in reply to a request from a private in Company L, of the regiment, who wrote Manager Donovan of the club stating that the national game was the only sport in which the boys on border duty had an opportunity to indulge.

London, Ky., July 19.—Fred W. Weltzell, receiver of the First National Bank of this city was arrested here today on a warrant charging him with embezzling funds of the bank. Being unable to give $3,000 bond, the United States commissioner ordered his removal to the jail at Covington, Ky.

PROHIBITION PARTY TO NOMINATE TODAY

OFFICERS PLAN COMPLETION OF ALL BUSINESS BEFORE CONVENTION

Candidacy of J. Frank Hanley of Indiana for Presidential Nomination is Given Impetus by Selection of Officers.

St. Paul, July 19.—Completion tomorrow of all business before the National Prohibition convention including presidential and vice-presidential nominations and adoption of a platform was planned by permanent officers of the convention at a meeting late tonight.

The nomination of J. Frank Hanley of Indiana as the presidential candidate of the Prohibition party was confidently predicted tonight by Hanley and leaders of the so called organizations in the Prohibition national convention following the unanimous reelection late today of Virgil G. Hinshaw, Chicago, to the chairmanship of the National committee.

Further impetus was given the Hanley candidacy by the selection of Robert H. Patton of Springfield, Ill., as permanent chairman, said leaders of both forces. Howard Kerschner, Topeka, Kas., was named permanent secretary.

Advocates of the Hanley candidacy succeeded in obtaining the adoption of a recommendation of the rules committee providing for the nomination of a presidential candidate tomorrow instead of Friday but later a motion prevailed for reconsideration of the convention's action.

The question will come up for decision tomorrow. The Indiana delegation agreed upon a proposal for Sumner W. Haynes to place in nomination the name of Mr. Hanley.

Hanley adherents pointed to the fact of Mr. Patton's selection as permanent chairman as corroborative of union among the organization forces.

Mr. Patton is one of Mr. Hinshaw's closest friends. With Mr. Patton in the chair the Hanley program met few obstacles at the afternoon session.

Daniel A. Poling, a Hanley supporter, nominated Mr. Hinshaw for national chairman after a rule providing for filling the office during the convention had been adopted.

Charles J. Hall of California with Oliver W. Stewart and other leaders, seconded the nomination and when no other candidates were named, Mr. Hinshaw was re-elected by acclamation.

ISSUES SERIES OF REPORTS ON MOBILIZATION OF MILITIA

Designed to Refute Charges That Men Have Been Improperly Rationed and Not Given Best Facilities Available For Trip South.

Washington, July 19.—The war department issued a series of reports on the mobilization of the national guard for border duty, all designed to refute charges that the men have been improperly rationed and not given the best facilities available in their trip south. Secretary Laker is preparing a report to congress on the subject in response to a resolution adopted a few days ago.

To show the present conditions in border camps Major General Tasker Bliss, assistant chief of staff, now is inspecting the entire border force. His first report came today from Mission, Texas, and is as follows: "Finished inspection Monday of Illinois and Wisconsin troops at Fort Sam Houston. Will mail report today. Finished inspection of Virginia and Illinois troops at Brownsville yesterday. Will finish inspection of New York, Indiana, Minnesota and Texas troops between Mission and San Benito by night of twentieth. Will mail report soon afterwards."

"Have found camps in excellent sanitary condition. Men are reasonably well sheltered and well fed. Have interviewed all regimental and company commanders and taken down their statements by the stenographer. Thus far they are unanimous in expressing satisfaction and contentment of officers and enlisted men. Deficiencies equipment are being made up rapidly as possible. General Funston and his staff deserve great credit for efficient handling of difficult problem."

PREDICT VICTORY FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY AT IOWA CONVENTION

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 19.—Victory for the Republican party in Iowa was predicted tonight at the close of the state convention which met here today, adopted a platform favoring prohibition and good roads and nominated H. M. Havner of Iowa for attorney general and John Guther of Winterset for railroad commissioner.

The threatened split over the attorney generalship was completely smoothed over, it was said, by the motion which came from Polk county to make the nomination of Mr. Havner unanimous. The platform makers commenting on the work said tonight that the platform as adopted insured the success of the party at the polls next fall.

SUBMARINE READY TO LEAVE PORT

Deutschland's Spars Are Taken Down and Coning Tower Closed

TUG IS CLOSE AT HAND

Numerous Launches With Agents of Company Patrols Aboard in Vicinity of Diver

STOP SHORE LEAVE OF CREW

BALTIMORE, Md., July 19.—At eleven o'clock tonight the two spars of the German merchantman submarine Deutschland were taken down and the coning tower closed. Close at hand lay the tug Thomas F. Timmins with a full head of steam.

In the vicinity of the submarine were numerous launches with agents of the Eastern Forwarding company aboard. These crafts at 11:05 halted a newspaper launch and tried to induce the reporters to leave.

"You're interfering with our plans," the watchman said. To all appearances the Deutschland will be ready to leave at any time, her crew and master were aboard.

The stevedores who have been working day and night for nearly a week putting aboard the return cargo of rubber and nickel were discharged this afternoon, two hours before the usual time for the day shift to quit.

All shore leave for the crew of the Deutschland was stopped tonight. According to stories told by friends of some of the submarine's seamen, the latter have expressed deepest anxiety over the possibility of their falling victims to the allied cruisers reported to be waiting the submersible off the cape—not from cannon but from disabled engines thru being caught in nets which they believe will be stretched for them.

GOVERNOR DUNNE WILL NOT SEND STATE TROOPS TO ROSICLARE

Based Decision on Report Received Shortly Before Midnight from Col. Shand.

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—Governor Dunne said tonight that state troops would not be sent to Rosiclare where striking feldspar miners were reported by the sheriff of Hardin county to be committing depredations. Governor Dunne stated his decision was based on a telegraphic report received shortly before midnight from Colonel Richard J. Shand who was sent to Rosiclare to investigate conditions. Colonel Shand was accompanied by J. F. Morris, secretary of the state mining board. Both agreed that local authorities were able to control the situation.

Adjutant General Frank S. Dickson returned tonight from LaSalle and went into conference with Governor Dunne with reference to the strike condition at LaSalle where five companies of state troops are stationed.

Governor Dunne said following the conference that negotiations between strikers and employees were going on nicely and that whenever an agreement was reached the troops would be withdrawn.

Public Building.

A Washington dispatch gives a long list of cities where congress has made appropriations for public buildings. Included in the list are Bloomington, $150,000; Carbondale, $60,000; East Moline, $45,000; Effingham, $45,000; Galva, $45,000; Harvey, $55,000; Peru, $45,000; Pittsfield, $35,000, all in this state. It would be interesting for somebody to compile a list showing the rentals now paid for postoffice accommodations in these cities and then compare this sum with a total represented by the interest on the money to be expended for these public buildings. As Senator Kenyon has frequently put it, the securing of public buildings is usually not a matter of economy or good business but of pleasing the adherents of the congressmen "back home."

No particular fault can be found with the erection of public buildings at a moderate cost in cities with populations of 10,000 or more, but there are some notable instances on record where expensive public buildings have been erected in towns with a population of less than 1,000. In these instances the public building measures belong in the "pork barrel" class.

Child Labor Legislation.

If President Wilson makes a strong fight in favor of the child labor law which he has openly espoused he is certain to incur the strong opposition of southern members of his party. One feature of the bill especially objectionable to them is the clause which would prevent shipment in interstate commerce of goods manufactured wholly or in part by children. Advance child labor legislation receives more opposition in the southern states than from any other part of the country. It is a lamentable fact that many southern industries are wholly dependent upon children, and some of the most pathetic sights in the industrial world are to be seen in southern states where children seven, eight or nine years old spend many hours each day at labor for a few cents pay. The president will have the support of thinking fair minded people, regardless of party, if he makes a determined fight for a fair child labor law.

What Business Wants.

From the Bache Review.
As far as the presidential election is concerned, business desires of politics attention to three principal matters—the tariff, the railroad and the merchant marine. It asks that the tariff be dominated and administered by an expert, nonpartisan commission, acting for the best interests of the whole country's business—not by politicians, pledged

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

JAMES J. HILL.

Jim Hill is gone to his repose, out where the weeping willow grows. While on this earth he asked no rest, this empire builder of the West; thru all his years he strove and fought; by night he planned, by day he wrought. Men used to say, "Where'er he goes he makes things blossom as the rose; along his track the cities rise, and chimneys point toward the skies, the hammer rings, and buoyant workmen smile and sing." He was the captain of a host, but slaying men was not his boast. His armies stormed no fort or town, and tore no famed cathedrals down, and where his mighty legions swept no widowed women wailed and wept. It's good to contemplate Jim Hill, the general who did not kill, now that the world is roaring mad, from Mexico to Petrograd. One hour of Hill is better far than fifty thousand years of war. This mighty captain lies at rest, his monument the whole Northwest.

DATES IN ILLINOIS HISTORY.

July 20, 1762—Sieur Boibe Desclaux was appointed judge civil and criminal for the Illinois district of the province of Louisiana.

blindly either to the policy or revenue only or of protection indiscriminately. For the railroads it wants regulation which will allow the transportation business to become and to remain universally prosperous, and not such regulation as has in the last few years driven one-sixth of the mileage of the country into bankruptcy thru endeavor to force operation of a cast iron theory, engineered by a commission without expert experience. For the upbuilding of the merchant marine it asks that destructive navigation laws be repealed and such legislation passed as to permit American owners in operating ships to compete successfully with the ship owners of other countries. Beyond this it demands that the government keep its hands off either operation or ownership. It is, of course, understood that politics does not care a particle what business wants, except that it recognizes that when business is good tenure of office is more liable to continue. Consequently on these grounds some study and attention to the above recital of simple wants will not be unprofitable for either party.

Railroad Publicity.

The plan of the railroads thru a bureau of publicity to keep the people and the railroad managers in closer touch is feasible. In the past few years there has been a notable change of attitude on the part of the people toward the railroads. The time was when it was thought the proper thing to continually attack the railroads thru legislation and otherwise seemingly on the theory that by unjust rates and over-charges the railroads were fattening at the expense of the people.

True, there have been some badly mismanaged railroad corporations which thru stock mergers and watered processes have defrauded the public. But this way has not been the rule in railroad management, and today, more than ever before, there is a broad recognition of the fact that the condition of the railroads is about the surest indication of general business conditions. When the railroads are doing a good business and earning dividends it can be set down as practically certain that the same condition holds true with reference to general business.

One cause of better feeling between the people and the railroads has been in this very matter of publicity and the railroad managers themselves have seemingly come to recognize that the good will of the people is essential to their business success, so the policy of ignoring public sentiment and operating railroads from no other viewpoint than the managers' has disappeared in a very great measure. Publicity has done much for the railroads and, properly directed, will do more.

The City Parks.

The parks of the city are the pride of the community.

Central Park, while it could be greatly improved, is one of the most useful and convenient places for rest and comfort in the city. Its shade trees, however, are its prime assets.

Of Nichols Park, nothing can be said except in the way of praise, of commendation for the park commissioners and admiration of the park itself and the way it is cared for.

Of the third of the city's parks, Duncan park on West State street, there could be many things said. It is an ideal place for parties.

Its magnificent, grand old shade trees and the cool green sward are inviting.

Ample facilities should be provided here for picnickers, for lawn parties, for little groups of citizens who wish to rest in the park and have some comfort there.

There should be more benches in the park.

Lighting facilities should be improved.

A well should be immediately dug or drinking water in some form be provided.

There was a well there a year or so ago, but for some reason the park commissioners were induced to fill it up.

Many people used the well. Many people would use one now.

There is a demand, a particularly insistent demand for good drinking water at this park.

The people of the city pay a good park tax, but it is questionable if the people of the city wish all the park funds to be expended upon only one park of the city.

A visit to other cities the size of Jacksonville leads one to believe that the park commissioners have been negligent in the care of Duncan park. It is a city park and should be kept up as such.

A good well of water, the grass kept in good shape, the flower beds attended to as they should be to make the park attractive, the park building kept clean and in good order are among the things needed.

The Duty of Militiamen.

After much discussion, disappointment among the men, and debate of the subject, the local militiamen, Company B., Fifth Illinois Infantry are awaiting the call to Springfield for mobilization.

The present need for men and boys of the company, most of the company would come under the latter head, is not for service on the Mexican border, where it was looked for, and eagerly expected by the militiamen, but for service in the southern part of our own state, for strike duty, to quell a community of unruly and out-law miners.

This is a duty which militiamen must be held in readiness at all times to perform for the state when the citizens of any community within the domains of the state shall outrage the laws of the community or use such violence as to get beyond the control of local authorities.

It is in such times that the state militia must perform its duty to the state and enforce order.

However it is at such times when the life for the militiamen is most hazardous.

He must perform his duty, that of preserving and enforcing order, and at the same time he is compelled to do so without the use of such force as he would ordinarily be expected to use, when in contact with an enemy with which the country was at war, or in other words with a foreign foe.

He must take the bricks, the insults, and even at times the fire of the strikers or rioters and is often not permitted to strike back, except in cases of extreme necessity.

Life for the guardsmen on the border has so far been extremely disagreeable for the soldiers on account of having to wear and endure the clothing which the U. S. government has handed out to them, clothing which is not adapted to tropical climates.

In many cases it is said they are compelled to wear big heavy "plow" shoes, rather than the regulation soft, pliable leather army shoes.

But lately the border enemy has been a negligible quantity, a foe that has given little trouble.

If the enemy on the border becomes warlike, shoots across the border, or makes himself obnoxious in other manner, the U. S. troops can use measures to effectually stop such actions.

Guard duty in one's own state, enforcing order among the citizens of Illinois, is greatly different from that along the Mexican border, where the foe is a common one, and a dead Mexican is a good Mexican.

There have already occurred three fatalities in the rioting at Rosiclare.

It is to be hoped that the trouble there will be quelled in short order and that further American blood will not be shed.

ROGER A. PRYOR BEGINS

EIGHTY NINTH YEAR.

New York, July 19—General Roger A. Pryor, noted Confederate veteran and former justice of the Supreme Court of New York, was the recipient of many congratulations today on the occasion of his eighty-eighth birthday. He is as vigorous mentally and physically as many men of scarcely more than half his years. He devotes a portion of each day to affairs of business and seldom misses a long daily walk in Central Park.

General Pryor has had a long and interesting career. He was born in Virginia and educated at the state university at Charlottesville. He was admitted to the bar in 1849, and then was editor for several years of Virginia newspapers. He was twice elected to Congress, and in 1855 represented the government on a special mission to Greece. He was a member of the first Confederate States Congress. During the civil war he rose from colonel to brigadier-general.

He was captured as a spy while serving, under special direction of General Lee, in cutting wires by which Grant maintained his communications. He was imprisoned in Fort Lafayette, N. Y., and saw a companion led out and hanged. He was to receive similar treatment, but President Lincoln relieved him because, while a division commander, he had paroled 5,000 members of Pope's hospital camp and sent them to Washington instead of to Andersonville prison.

After the war General Pryor came to New York, and was admitted to the bar here in 1866. He tried some celebrated cases as a lawyer. In 1870 he was a delegate to the Democratic national convention. He was a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas from 1890 to 1891 and a Justice of the Supreme Court from 1894 to 1899.

ST. LOUIS SHOE COMPANY SEEKS A FACTORY BRANCH SITE

Jacksonville One of Cities Under Consideration by the Company—Committee Here Wednesday.

Representatives of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe company were in Jacksonville Wednesday to consider the possibility of locating a branch factory in this city. Some years ago the same company considered the plan of locating here but subsequently decided that it would be more to the advantage of the company to place the factory elsewhere. During the years of development of the company's business it has been the policy from time to time to locate branch factories in cities where shipping and labor conditions were favorable. This has been deemed the more advisable plan than that of centralizing all of the company's manufacturing business in one city.

Labor the First Need.
The representatives of the company during their visit here yesterday talked with bankers, city officials and members of the Chamber of Commerce and business men in their endeavor to get an accurate line upon conditions here. One of the first things to be considered in the location of such a factory is the possibility of securing labor.

It was the fear that the chances were not very good of securing all the necessary help that influenced the shoe company to some extent at a previous date in deciding not to locate here. After yesterday's investigation they did not indicate just what they considered the local conditions. The company has plants in Brookfield, Murphysboro and several other Illinois cities in addition to the factories in Missouri.

Would Mean Big Weekly Pay Roll.
If a plant should be located here the company would expect to be paid a sum of about $60,000 per week to be used in the acquiring of a site and erection of a factory. A building 350 feet long by 50 feet wide and three stories high would be in general dimensions about the type needed. The suggestion that this amount of money be paid to the company in return for locating the factory here is justified on the theory that for months the business will not show profits on account of the necessity of breaking in unskilled labor. Any agreement made between the city and the company would include the provision that he weekly pay roll would be $4,000 or $5,000. About sixty per cent of the labor employed in a shoe factory is unskilled. The Hamilton-Brown company, where branch factories are established, devotes each branch to the manufacture of some one particular kind of shoe. Better results are secured in this way than when a factory produces several different kinds of shoes.

Matter to be Seriously Considered.
There is nothing at all definite about the matter at the present time but the shoe company is a stable business concern that is not simply looking around for a bonus as is true of a good many firms that seek locations. For this reason the matter will have the earnest consideration of local business men, who will naturally wish that a satisfactory basis of agreement be reached if that is at all possible. The advantage of having a factory located here with a weekly pay roll of $4,000 or $5,000 needs no argument, but, as indicated before, one of the most important questions for consideration would be the ability of the company to secure the labor here.

There are not enough people out of employment in Jacksonville to man such a factory, and of necessity a considerable floating population must be attracted to the city if the necessary help is provided for such an institution.

PROHIBITION PARTY HAS MADE PROGRESS WITH YEARS

Twelfth National Convention Now in Session in St. Paul Will Attract More Attention Than Earlier Gatherings.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The Prohibition convention now in session in St. Paul is the twelfth national convention held by the party for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President. Since the first convention held at Columbus, February 22, 1872, the zeal of those who attribute all the social, moral and economic distress of the world to the liquor habit has never abated. Regularly, every four years, the Prohibitionists have put a national ticket in the field, only to see it overwhelmingly defeated at election time.

The St. Paul convention is attracting far more attention from the general public than has any previous convention held by the party for the liquor traffic. Several substantial reasons exist for the increased attention given the convention. In the first place, the liquor question is a bigger issue in this country today than ever before. Indisputable evidence of this exists on all sides, with the ever lengthening column of "dry" States furnishing proof positive of the fact.

But more important still, from the viewpoint of the practical politician, is the announced intention of the Prohibition party leaders to make a serious bid for the presidency this year. While this announcement in itself would scarcely be sufficient to cause the leaders of the old parties to sit up and take notice, there are outward and visible signs of unusual activity on the part of the Prohibitionists that have caused no little uneasiness among the Democrats and Republicans.

A stiff dose of practical politics has been injected into the Prohibitionists this year, and it is this fact that is causing the leaders of the old parties to keep their ears to the ground this week awaiting news of the proceedings at St. Paul. So long as the Prohibition party remained a party of theory, there was little fear that its votes would count any important figure in election results.

Henceforth, if the plans of the leaders are carried out at St. Paul, the Prohibition party will no longer be open to the charge that it is a party of one idea. The national issues other than the suppression of the liquor traffic, tho the declaration tions against the "rum evil" will, of course, form the main plank of that platform. Woman suffrage, peace and preparedness, the danger of hyphenated Americanism, and a wide variety of other issues that are agitating the public at the present time will receive attention in the platform declarations. And these declarations will be framed in a manner calculated to attract many votes.

The possibility of an alliance between the Prohibitionists and the stand-pat faction of the Progressives is another source of worry for the old parties. The mere suggestion of such an alliance furnishes striking evidence of the practical turn that has been given the direction of the Prohibition party management this year. Whether or not the merger is formally consummated, it is regarded as a certainty that the Prohibitionists will make a strong bid for the support of the irreconcilable Progressives at the polls in November.

The situation as it exists today, with reference to the relations between the Prohibitionists and the two older parties, was accurately forecasted many years ago in the writings of James Bryce. Speaking of the Prohibition party and its activities as a subject of practical interest to wide-awake politicians of the two great parties, Mr. Bryce wrote:

"The number of persons who are thoroughgoing Prohibitionists and pure Prohibitionists—that is to say, who are not also Republicans or Democrats—is small, far too small, even when reinforced by a section of the 'temperance men' and by discontented Republicans or Democrats who may dislike the regular candidates of their party, to give the Prohibition ticket a chance of success in any State.

"The importance of the Prohibition ticket lies in the fact that in a doubtful State it may draw away enough votes from one of the 'regular' candidates to leave him in the minority. Mr. Bryce probably suffered in this way in the election of 1884, most of the votes cast for the Prohibitionist candidate having come from quondam Republicans. On the other hand, a case may be cited in this way in the election of an outlet or safety valve, such as the Prohibitionist ticket, would prevent the bolters from one party from taking the more dangerous course of voting for the candidate of the opposite party."

W. W. Holliday and nieces, Miss Esther Moody, of Chapin and Miss Melba Anderson, expect to leave today for a stay of ten days or more at Piasa, Ill.

SIX EVENTS ON PROGRAM AT NORTH RANDALL RACE TRACK

Walter Cox Rides to his First 1916 Victory When he Teamed Mabel Trask in the First Big Trotting Classic of the Season.

Cleveland, O., July 19.—Today was bargain day at the North Randall Grand circuit races with six events on the program. Walter Cox rode to his first 1916 victory when he teamed Mabel Trask, in the first big trotting classic of the 1916 grand circuit.

St. Frisco driven by Frank Jones of Memphis won the opening heat, setting a new record for the Ohio stake by going the full distance in 2:04 1-4. But in the next two miles Cox was always ready, and so was Mabel Trask, for in each mile Mabel would on demand uncock a reserve burst of speed that made her simply fly over the ground, a speed that was entirely too much for even a trotter of St. Frisco's ability and each mile Cox was able to pull up a little, and let Mabel Trask ease off a little under the wire.

In the unfinished North Randall three year old trotting sweepstakes, Expressive Lou continued her winning way, taking the deciding heat easily.

The Beaver won the second unfinished 2:05 pace in straight heats. The Beaver paid $14 to $2 on the mutuels.

Bondalin, which last season was the champion 3 year old pacer of the Pacific coast came to the front in the 2:09 pace. After dropping the first heat he simply paced his field into the ground and won as he pleased. His victory was one of the big upsets of the meeting and Bondalin paid $133.70 to $2 when he won the second heat.

Gilbert Patch, one of the few favorites that have gone over during the present meeting, won the 2:15 pace, and in the third heat was nosed out by Thomas Earl and had his troubles winning in the opening heat from Derby Custer getting a verdict that could have gone either way.

The 2:11 trot was won by Billy Durfee's Esperanza, another long shot. After losing the first heat to Director Todd, Durfee's mare came back and won the next two.

CENTRAL PARK CONVERTED INTO A MILITARY CAMP

After Hours of Drill Co. B. Pitches Tents and Awaits Order for Mobilization.

Company B, Fifth Illinois Infantry, were in camp last night altho they were not on the Mexican border, in Springfield, nor in Rosiclar, but after a hard night's drilling pitched their tents in Central Park or "Camp Owen."

The men drilled until midnight in Armory Hall, were taken to the street for a few minutes more work and then were marched to Central Park and ordered to pitch their tents. In a short time the West side of the park resembled a miniature Camp Dunne. The men had their tents pitched and were ready for orders from Governor Dunne to proceed to Rosiclar. Before taps were sounded Captain Owen gave the order to "fall in." He told the men that they might be given orders to move at any time and to get all the rest they could in a short time.

He said that the reveille would sound not later than 4:30, and perhaps sooner. He cautioned them about noise as guests in the Hotel Douglas were sleeping. After telling them they would be notified the moment anything of interest was discovered the men were dismissed and ordered into quarters. Taps were sounded at 12:40 o'clock and in a short time the warlike body of soldiers were asleep.

The men were anxiously awaiting a call to move but seemed perfectly contented in their camp even tho it was in peaceful Jacksonville.

W. C. Bradish, treasurer of the Clover Leaf Casualty company, is a patient at Passavant hospital because of a broken collar bone and fractured rib resulting from an automobile accident. He was in Lake county and was traveling by automobile visiting some of the towns and cities which are only a few miles apart. In some manner the chauffeur of the car in which he was traveling lost control of the machine and it went over an embankment. Mr. Bradish was the only passenger in the car beside the chauffeur. He was caught under the top of the car when it went over but managed to extricate himself and then gave aid to the chauffeur. Afterward Mr. Bradish was able to make his way to a farm house not far distant and he was then taken in another car to the town of Antioch.

Tho feeling badly shaken up from the accident, he was able to travel and decided he would return home to have his injuries given attention. Mr. Bradish will be at the hospital several days, and that his injuries are not of a more serious character is merely a matter of good fortune.

CONTRACT LET FOR OILING WORK ON CHAPIN ROAD

W. H. Cocking and F. J. Blackburn Will Do Oiling and Grading Work—Contract Figured at $17,270.82.

W. H. Cocking was awarded the contract in Springfield yesterday for oiling the 6 1-2 miles of roadway running west from Jacksonville towards Chapin. The price was $17,270.82, a figure just $2.30 below the engineer's estimate for the work, which was $17,273.12. The road will be known as section B. Route 11, state highway. The larger part of the work to be done on this roadway consists of grading and the bid of F. J. Blackburn for this work was included in the figure made by Mr. Cocking. The contract also includes the construction of a considerable number of concrete culverts. The entire work on this improvement will be done by local people.

It is a requirement of the state commission that actual work on the contract begin within ten days and it is also required that the work be completed by November 1st. It will, therefore, be necessary for the contractors to put a large force at work within a short time. A large portion of the grading can be done with machinery but teams, plows and scrapers will be needed for the remaining part. The state commission's engineers who looked over the Chapin road and drew the plans and specifications for the improvement believe that when this highway is completed that it will present a fine example of what draining, grading and proper culvert construction will do for highway betterments. The improvement work will begin at the city limits and the 6 1-2 mile distance will carry them to the Mauvais-terre creek which is west of the "Collins hill".

FINDING OF MORE BODIES BRINGS FLOOD DEATH LIST TO SEVENTY

ASHEVILLE, July 19.—Additional bodies found today in North Carolina brought the number of deaths from the recent floods to approximately seventy, with six persons missing and believed to be dead. Seven of the flood victims were drowned at Ronda, near Wilkesboro. They were in two houses cast ashore. A delayed communication received from North Wilkesboro today estimates damage in that town at $500,000. Seven persons were drowned.

HIS TWO BAD DAYS.

Lord Byron Had a Positive Dread of Fridays and Sundays.

The belief in palmists and soothsayers is not, as is sometimes supposed, confined to the ignorant and the credulous. Lord Byron was not a skeptic in these matters. Just before his death, as recorded in "Byron—The Last Phase" by Richard Edgcumbe, "he said he had reflected a great deal on a prediction which had been made to him when a boy by a famed fortune teller in Scotland.

"His mother, who firmly believed in chronancy and astrology, had sent for this person and desired him to inform him what would be the future destiny of her son. Having examined attentively the palm of his hand, the man looked at him for awhile steadfastly and then with a solemn voice exclaimed, 'Beware of your thirty-seventh year, my young lord, beware!'"

"He had entered on his thirty-seventh year on Jan. 22, and it was evident from the emotion with which he related this circumstance that the caution of the palmist had produced a deep impression on his mind, which in many respects was so superstitious that we thought it proper to accuse him of superstition.

"To say the truth," answered his lordship, "I find it equally difficult to know what not to believe. . . . You will, I know, ridicule my belief in lucky and unlucky days, but no consideration can now induce me to undertake anything either on a Friday or a Sunday. I am positive it would terminate unfortunately. Every one of my misfortunes—God knows I have had my share—has happened to be on one of those days."

HORSES IN BATTLE.

Methods of the Days When Chariots Were Used in Warfare.

In the old days when the Romans and Greeks fought furious battles the charioteers drove their cars in all directions, hurled their javelins and by the din and clatter of their wheels commonly threw the ranks of the enemy into disorder and, making their way among the squadrons of the enemy's cavalry, leaped down from their chariots and fought on foot.

The charioteers then withdrew little by little out of the fight and placed their chariots in such a way that if they were hard pressed they could readily retreat to their own side. Thus in battle they afforded the mobility of cavalry with the steadiness of infantry.

Daily practice enabled them to pull up their horses at full speed when on a steep slope or to run out on the pole and stand on the yoke and to get nimbly back into the chariot.

With the introduction of cavalry in the later iron age came larger horses, but their use for this purpose seems to have been restricted to isolated areas. There is no doubt that the west German tribes as late as the campaign of Caesar in Gaul used only the shaggy pony. It is said in cavalry actions they held it disgraceful and slothful to use any kind of saddle, and instead of charging in squadrons they dismounted and fought on foot.

As far as England is concerned the art of riding seems to have been introduced by the Normans. The Saxons appear to have been but indifferent horsemen.

Dickens's Last Letter.

The last paragraph of the last letter written by Charles Dickens read: "But I hope I may be ready at 3 o'clock. If I can't be—why, then I shan't be. Ever affectionately, C. D."

This was written an hour or so before the fatal seizure. Every word droops below the level from which each starts, each line of writing descends across the page, the simple C. D. is very shaky, and the whole letter is broken and weak. Charles Dickens was not "ready" at "3 o'clock." He died at ten minutes past 6 p. m.

A Woman's Solace.

"Silas, I often think of the time when you came courting—it's a woman's solace. And when I entered the room you hastened to assist me to a chair—near your own. And now I select my own chair."

"Yes, Samantha, I remember it. I was always afraid you would stumble and fall and have fidgets. But I learned long ago that you are able to take care of yourself."

"And also of you, Silas."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Sultan's Dreaded Shadow.

Ispahan has been for long interesting to Europeans as the home of that romantic person Zill-es-Sultan, the uncle of the last shah. A strong, bullying autocrat, his name became a word of terror, a bogey. When a southern Persian's horse refuses to drink he asks it: "What's the matter? Do you see your shadow (zill) in the water?"

Efficiency of the Human Face.

No stone crusher ever devised possesses relatively one-tenth the force of the human jaws. No nicely adjusted mechanical contrivance ever approached the precision and delicacy of the human eye, writes Dr. William P. Cunningham of New York in the Medical Record.

Safety First and Last.

Mrs. Catterson—I am actually afraid to get my bank book balanced for fear I have made a mistake. Mrs. Harrison—Why don't you do as I do? I keep on drawing the money out until they won't let me have any more.—Life.

Still an Amateur.

"Have you ever loved before?" "Not enough to affect my amateur status, dearest," he replied.—Baltimore American.

TOM H. BUCKTHORPE

OLD JACKSONVILLE

Berean College

By Ensley Moore.

Member Illinois State Historical Society.

It is a fortunate thing for a town to have a number of educational institutions, as Jacksonville well knows. Even when there are some of them charitable charges of the state, still they are of value in many ways. In either case they bring in teachers who are of higher education, and they attract a citizenship of higher education and educational demands than a merely commercial or manufacturing place. A person has only to go to Decatur or Springfield to see how much more desirable Jacksonville is as a place of residence or to raise children in.

One of the worst uses a boy or youth can be put to is to send him away to school or college. It is all right to talk about the advantages of Eastern schools or of those in large cities, but it is a misfortune for the average boy to be sent away from home, just at the formative stage of life. So the towns which have home schools are doubly fortunate. And, as most places have no higher schools or colleges, it is to the advantage of their young people to be sent to the small institutions, in smaller towns and cities, rather than to the crowded places.

Bloomington has its two higher institutions. Lincoln, Nebraska has a number of such. One suburb, University place, is made by the Methodist school there.

Jacksonville—as need not be said—has always been alive to educational needs and advantages, and has had a large number of higher schools. And the institutions for the Deaf and the Blind, as well as the Hospital for the Insane, have added to the number of educational and professional people in this city.

But Jacksonville is today short of three separate schools that it once had; each a very valuable asset in its field.

Jacksonville Female Academy, founded in 1830, and chartered in 1835, was the first school of higher learning for women in the state. It has so recently been merged in Illinois college that our citizens need scarcely be reminded of the fact. But it may be stated that the merger took effect in 1903.

The Young Ladies Athenaeum, the highest grade school for women that Jacksonville had until quite recently, was established in 1864, in a rented building, but afterwards had its own ample home on S. Sandy street, and continued its work until 1884. It graduated many young ladies resident here and elsewhere, and its graduates have largely occupied high positions in life.

While these schools were for learning, yet the more there are of them in a place the more financial returns come to the town so favored, and the loss of such institutions are not to be lightly considered.

Berean College.

There was another school here for some years, which deserves mention and remembrance, and it would have been well, probably if it could have been maintained on a grade equal to the other schools of Jacksonville. It was called Berean College, and was a co-educational establishment of the Christian, or Disciples church. The details of its history are not very available, but it should not be forgotten.

A resume of the early history of the local Christian church is fairly in order, to show how this college came to being and to give some idea of the school itself.

The Christian church of this city, commonly called the Church of Christ was founded in the old Court house building, situated in the public square (now our city park) October, 1832, and was, for many years, not only the mother church of Morgan county, whose territory extended over Cass and Scott, but was the only church of this denomination in the state, out of which grew the organization in St. Louis as well.

There were eighty seven charter members at that time. D. P. Henderson afterwards very prominent in the denomination as a preacher, being of the number. In an article, printed in 1887, was the following in reference to the organizing: "Among the ministers who were present and officiating on the occasion (in 1832) were Barton Warren Stone, of Kentucky, then on a visit to this pioneer county; Josephus Hewitt, also lately from Kentucky, but a resident here; assisted by Elders John Green and Scott Riggs, both of Morgan county. In 1832, Dr. Wm. G. Elliott of St. Louis, then a pale and sickly young graduate from Yale college, visited Jacksonville and delivered an address to the congregation, characteristic of his practical views. He afterwards became one of the foremost philanthropists of his time, and was late Chancellor of Washington University (St. Louis).

During a part of '33 and '34 the congregation worshipped in a little log school house, about two blocks from the public square, located about where College and Mauvalsterre streets intersect now. In 18— they raised funds and built what was then considered a handsome edifice, on North Main street, since purchased and occupied by the Turners for their hall.

Up to 1844, the labors of the members of this church resulted in the organization of various churches all over the state, including St. Louis, Mo.

Prominent members who have gone out from this church were Dr. W. H. Hopson, now of Nashville, Tenn., and Rev. S. S. Church, who died in St. Louis, March 19, 1856, one of the most prominent men in the church at that time, both of whom were among the youngest members; Rev. D. P. Henderson, well known in this community for over half a century, and Elders John T. Jones, W. W. Happy and Abrams, all three of whom have passed away, and Jas. Stark of Hancock county. The first pastor called to this church was Elder Jeremiah Lancaster, followed by Elder A. J. Kane, Jonathan Atkinson and Enoch Campbell. This last must be a mistake, for the Rev. W. S. Russell had been a minister before Mr. Campbell came.

Mr. Chas. M. Eames in his "Historical Morgan" states: "About 1853 or '54 the Christian denomination began the erection of a building known as the Berean college. A charter was received, dated Feb. 12, 1855, soon after which the building was completed, and the following year school was opened with Dr. Jonathan Atkinson as president."

The college continued until about 1858 or '59, when a division in the church occurred, and soon after the school was discontinued. A few years after, the property was sold to Mrs. Eliza Ayers for twelve thousand dollars. Its original cost was over thirty thousand dollars. Mrs. Ayers has since deeded the property to a board of trustees, to be used as an orphan's home, and City Hospital. The frame building immediately in the rear of the college is occupied by the orphans, while the college itself is used as the hospital. The frame building was formerly the home of Col. John J. Hardin, so well known through this portion of the state and who lost his life at the battle of Buena Vista. The home is conducted on the "Muller plan" by the Rev. Dr. Passavant, who has charge of eight similar institutions in different parts of the United States.

Since Mr. Eames' account was written, the institution has dropped its orphan feature and become simply a hospital, and no one needs to be told where "Passavant" is located, or of the great good it has done. Neither should the part of Mrs. Ayers in presenting so good a thing to the public be forgotten. It is also notable that the place should have its triply historical associations.

Since Mr. Eames wrote his account the Hardin house has been moved away, and very decided additions have been made to Passavant hospital building.

The quotations made above do not refer to the Rev. W. S. Russell, but it is the writers' understanding that Mr. Russell was the last president of Berean College. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Russell, who came here from St. Louis, just before the Civil War. The Reverend W. S. had been here a few years before his parents came.

They were the parents of Sol Smith Russell and of Robert D. Russell, both well known here. Mrs. Russell was a Miss Smith, and "Sol" was named for her brother. Mrs. Russell was noted for her high Christian character, and devotion to public work, and was a lady of attractive personal appearance. Sol, following his mother in his size and looks, R. D. looked more like his father. R. D. went from here to Minneapolis, Minn., where he became prominent as a Circuit judge, and where he died, some fifteen years ago. The Rev. W. S. Russell was a man of exceptionally high intellectual quality, as was also that of Sol and of R. D. W. S. died young, in 1863 or 1864, and his departure was a distinct loss to this community.

FROM THE EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

One of the most distinguished visitors to American schools and universities this coming year will be Sir Rabindranath Tagore, Hindu poet and philosopher, winner of the Nobel prize of literature in 1913, who will visit the United States and make a lecture tour of the principal educational institutions of the country. He plans to arrive in Seattle in September, and after a short stay on the Pacific coast, to spend several months in the East.

Cincinnati educators have made an enviable record in the matter of being authors of school textbooks. No less than 26 prominent Cincinnati school teachers, past and present, are authors of textbooks of wide school circulation. The first of these, "Ray's Electrical Arithmetic," was published as early as 1834. The series of "Ray's Arithmetics," by Dr. Joseph Ray, then professor of mathematics at Woodward College, Cincinnati, is still in use as standard textbooks throughout the country.

Interesting news comes from China of the great track and field meet held on the grounds of the Methodist University of Peking, and in which 11 schools competed representing the three northern provinces of China. This was the fourth North China track and field meet, and was won by the Nankai School of Tientsin. Field meets was a great novelty in China until recent years, as the old type of classical student in China abhorred exercises of all sorts, and never engaged in violent athletic games.

John Edward Calfee, head of the normal department of mathematics at Berea College, Kentucky, has resigned his post there to become president of the Normal and Collegiate Institute at Asheville, N. C. Mr. Calfee was born in a one-room log cabin in the wilds of Dade County, Maryland, and has spent his life entirely among the people of the Southern mountain section. He has become widely known for his conviction that teaching country boys and girls mathematical problems dealing with Wall street operations, the building of submarines and skyscrapers and some other things that are found in ordinary school textbooks, is of much less importance than solving their own problems. His courses in arithmetic to his mountain pupils dealt entirely with rural problems, such as bad roads, waste of machinery, health and sanitation, and the title of "father of rural mathematics" was jokingly bestowed upon him by fellow professors.

Two college presidents among its officers, is the unprecedented circumstances connected with the First Vermont Regiment of Militia, now under arms in preparation to do its duty if war calls. Its colonel is President Ira I. Reeves of Norwich University, and its chaplain is President John B. Thomas of Middlebury College, both Vermont institutions. Col. Reeves is a former officer of the regular army. He was installed as president of Norwich a day after the call came for the militia, and doffed his academic robes to don his uniform.

A committee of eleven professors and instructors in Eastern schools and colleges has been appointed by the College Entrance Examination Board to consider a further revision of the requirements in Latin for admission to college, and with a view to making these requirements of simpler scope. One of the changes suggested is a reduction in the total number of entrance examinations, such as would be gained, for instance, by combining into one examination the separate tests in grammar, elementary prose composition, and Cicero and sight translation of prose, or by using the comprehensive papers, covering all this ground, which Harvard, Princeton and Yale employ.

Seven thousand students are enrolled for summer study at the summer session of Columbia University, which opened last week. Two important conferences are now being held in connection with the summer session. The first of these is on classical studies, and President Nicholas Murray Butler has secured two of the leading classical scholars of the world to lecture for three weeks this month at the conference. Professor Gilbert Murray of the University of Oxford, and Professor Paul Shorey of the University of Chicago. With the aid of these two distinguished scholars, President Butler aims at a revival of the classical languages, of which he has always been a determined advocate. A second conference of importance now in progress in connection with the summer session is one on religion.

Cubs and Giants both hopeful of getting Herzog of Cincinnati

CHICAGO, July 19.—Indications

tonight were that both the New York and Chicago National League

clubs were hopeful of getting Charles

Herzog of Cincinnati. President

Weegman declined to add further to his statement that he expected a decision soon from Cincinnati and it is believed that he is "standing

pat" on an offer he made yesterday.

President Hempstead of the Giants, who reached Chicago today is reported to have made another

bid for Herzog after a conference with Manager McGraw.

Shortstop Eddie Mulligan and Second Baseman McCarthy were re-

SWALE SIGHT SPECIALIST

HUMOR IN VISITORS' BOOKS.

Witty Comments Left Behind by Disgusted Hotel Guests.

The custom of keeping books in hotels and boarding houses and asking visitors to leave behind them some written record of their stay has been productive of many witty effusions,
the humor of which, however, could scarcely be appreciated in some cases by
"mine host."

It was Quin, the actor, says London
Tit-Bits, who many years ago wrote
the following at the once famed Pelican Inn near Newbury:

The famous inn at Speenhamland,
That stands beneath the hill,
May well be called the Pelican
From its enormous bill.

A hotel keeper in Argentina proudly points to the following recommendation
written by an English visitor:

"If you have no objection to garlic
in your food, treacle in your wine, mosquitoes in your bedroom and dishonesty in your landlord; if you are content with a saucer for your bath and if you like being hurled out of bed in the morning by an earthquake I can, from experience, recommend this hotel."

Needless to say the landlord could not read English.

At a pretentious suburban hotel, says
the London Truth, one may read: "I have pleasure in testifying to the honor of this hotel. Every one dresses for dinner except the cook. The proprietors give the cook next to nothing to dress for dinner." And at an old established posting house in Lancashire some ambiguous visitor entered this remark: "The food here is exceptional. I feel hungry every day."

WORK OF THE BEAVERS.

Wonderful Skill and Activity of These Clever Dam Builders.

There are probably few examples of animal industry and constructive abilities more widely known than those of the beaver—every one carries from his school days a general notion that beavers build dams and other things—and,
though there may be a considerable margin between popular belief and the limits of fact, enough remains to attach a high degree of interest to the beaver.

With their very powerful teeth they can cut through a branch three inches thick in as many minutes. The pieces cut off are held by the teeth and forepaws and carried or dragged to the spot where they are to be used and fitted into place. The fitting is by no means carelessly carried out, and the beaver seems to have some fairly definite idea of the size and length of the piece he needs.

The beaver makes his home primarily by burrowing in the bank of a stream, and the purpose of the dam is to maintain the water at a fixed height, so that the entrance to the burrow is always covered as a protection from enemies.

Though, however, the beaver has intelligence enough for the building of his dam, he has not sufficient to know when to stop building, and so he increases the structure and raises the level of his pool until burrowing upward no longer serves to keep his house above water, and so he raises the height of his walls and roof by building with branches and mud the well known dome shaped "lodges."

Charles Lamb in British Museum.
The British museum reading room
was a favorite resort of Charles Lamb
in the days following his retirement from the East India House. "I am going through a course of reading at the museum," he writes to Bernard Barton in 1826, "the Garrick plays, out of part of which I formed my 'Specimens.' I have 2,000 to go through and in a few weeks have dispatched the tythe of 'em. It is a sort of office to me; hours
10 to 4, the same. It does me good.
Man must have regular occupation that has been used to it." Mary Lamb expressed her delight in her brother's fondness for the museum "as occupying his time and keeping him from his walks, which she seemed to think overlong."

His Modest Position.
"I don't envy the men who manage the big hotels in the cities," gloomily said the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "It is as much as I can do to make a bluff at keeping the peace between the little bunch of help I've got.
Yesterday one of the two dining room girls said that the other one's best feller had two left feet, and in less than no time those two young ladies had flew to it with ketchup bottles and so forth. Just imagine the spritely function there would be in a hotel with 700 employees, all battling with ketch-up bottles!"—Judge.

Possibly.
Mr. Briggs—Here's an article, dear,
a very interesting article, in which a prominent doctor says that a certain cure for nervousness in women is silence, complete silence. Mrs. Briggs (promptly)—I'll bet anything some fool
of a man doctor wrote that!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hard to Get Rid Of.
"Opportunity is said to call once and return no more."

"I wish opportunity followed the same tactics," declared the man who had just succeeded in prying himself house from a persistent canvasser.—
Louisville Courier-Journal.

Between Octogenarians.
"I understand they sentenced him to life imprisonment."

"Well, no; it wasn't as bad as that.
He got only ninety-nine years!"—Puck.

"Time enough" always proves little enough.—Franklin.

DECLINING QUOTATIONS AT LIVERPOOL LOWER WHEAT

Market Closes Nervous a Shade to
% of a Cent Net Lower—Rain Gives Bears Advantage Regarding Corn.

Chicago, July 19.—Wheat prices showed some weakness today, influenced by declining quotation at Liverpool and by renewed hints of a chance for peace. The market closed nervous, a shade to % net lower with Sept. at $1.12 and Dec.
at $1.15 1/2.

Corn finished 1/4 % off to % up,
oats down 1/2 % to % and provisions varying from a decline to rise of 5c.

The wheat market appeared at first to be almost wholly under the sway of bearish cables. The outlook for shipments from Russia in the event of peace was a factor in European estimates of values.

Persistence of the blackrust advice led to something of a rally in wheat values, altho at no time to above yesterday's latest figures. The damage reports covered a wider territory in the spring crop states than has heretofore been the case. Rain in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois gave the bears an advantage
regarding corn.

Oats underwent a sag with other cereals. Heavy realizing sales by holders acted as a weight on oats and rye.

Packers buying however, was more than an offset as to pork. A break in the oil market seemed to have prompted some of the selling of lard.

STOCKS DISPLAY PRONOUNCED RECUPERATIVE POWER

Rise is Brought About by a Combination of Favorable Circumstances.

New York, July 18.—Stocks displayed pronounced recuperative power today, specialties of almost all descriptions scoring average gains of 20 to 30 points. The rise was brought about by a combination of favorable circumstances which included well defined reports of forthcoming war contracts. The apparent success of the new French loan and the weekly reviews of steel trade authorities referred to increasing tonnage of exports, exercised a favorable influence. Local money conditions reflected further ease.
Munitions and equipments like Bethlehem and Crucible Steels, the locomotives, railway steel springs, American car, pressed steel car and the motors and their accessories contributed to the breadth of the trading. Shipping shares remained much of their former prominence.

United States Steel led the market, altho only making an extreme gain of 1 1/2 points. The consensus of opinion is that no "extra" dividend will be declared at next week's quarterly meeting. Rails were backward most of the day. Bonds failed to keep pace with the stock list
showing some irregularity.

Total sales par value aggregated
$2,435,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

$85,000,000 FEDERAL AID FOR RURAL ROADS

Recent Legislation Provides For System of Improved Highways—
How States May Secure Funds.

Washington, D. C. July 19.—The sum of $85,000,000 of federal funds is made available for the construction of rural roads by the passage of the Federal Aid Road Bill which became a law on July 11, 1916. Of this sum, $75,000,000 is to be expended for the construction of rural post roads under cooperative arrangements with the highway departments of the various states, and $10,000,000 is to be expended for roads and trails within or partly within the national forests. The Act limits the Federal governments share in road work in cooperation with the states to 50 per cent of the estimated cost of construction. Federal aid may be extended to the construction of any rural post road, excluding all street or roads in towns having a population of 2,500 or more except the portions of such streets or roads on which the houses are, on an average more than 200 feet apart. Five million dollars is made available for expenditure during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and thereafter the appropriation is increased at the rate of five millions a year until 1921, when the sum provided is twenty-five millions, making a total of seventy-five millions. In addition, an appropriation of one million dollars a year for ten years, a total of ten million dollars, is made available for the development of roads and trails wholly or partly within the national forests.

The class of roads to be built and the method of construction are to be mutually agreed upon by the Secretary of Agriculture and the state highway departments.

Apportionment of the Funds.
The Act provides that after making necessary deductions for administering its provisions—not to exceed three per cent of the appropriation for any one fiscal year—the Secretary of Agriculture shall apportion the remainder of each year's appropriation in the following manner:

One-third in the ratio which the area of each state bears to the total area of all the states;

One-third in the ratio which the population of each state bears to the total population of all the states;

One-third in the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each state bears to the total mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in all the states.

Estimates of Funds Needed.
Project statements setting forth the proposed construction of any rural post road or roads in a state are to be submitted by the state highway department to the Secretary of Agriculture, and upon approval by the Secretary all necessary surveys

PRESERVE YOUR CHILD'S HAIR

When your child is grown the condition of and amount of his or her hair will depend largely upon the way it is cared for now.

The human hair is composed of about 175,000 delicate oil plants. Ordinary soaps and shampoos will soon destroy the natural oil and the fatty roots of these plants, making the hair dry and brittle or destroying it entirely. EVERY WEEK SHAMPOO is an anti-septic oil shampoo that cleanses and purifies the scalp thoroughly and leaves the hair just as nature intended, soft, fluffy, silky and the scalp slightly moist with oil, but no surplus oil in the hair. It is a most excellent shampoo for children as well as adults. Large bottle containing 64 teaspoonfuls 50¢.

Lee P. Alcott, Armstrong's Drug Store, Clarence L. DePew, J. A. Obermeyer and son and leading stores everywhere.

plans, specifications and estimates must be furnished. The roads projected must be of a substantial character, and items covering engineering, inspection and unforeseen contingencies are not to exceed ten per cent of the total estimated cost of the work.

Upon completion of the work as approved by the Secretary, the amount set aside for the project is to be paid to the proper state official. The Secretary of Agriculture is given authority in his discretion to make payments as the work progresses, but not in excess of the Federal government's pro rata share of the labor and material which have actually been put into construction work, nor in excess of $10,000 per mile, exclusive of the cost of bridges of more than 20 feet clear span. All construction work is subject to the inspection and approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Charged With Maintenance.
The various states securing aid under the provisions of the Act are charged with the making of needed repairs and the preservation of a reasonably smooth surface, considering the type of the road, but are not obligated to make extraordinary repairs or undertake reconstruction. If, after due notice a state fails to maintain a federally aided road properly, the Secretary is required to refuse further aid until the road has been properly repaired at state expense.

For Roads in the National Forests.
The sum of $10,000,000 is made available in yearly appropriations of $1,000,000 for the cooperative construction and maintenance of roads and trails within or partly within the national forests by the United States states, territories or counties in which the forests lie. Expenditures for this purpose are not to exceed ten per cent of the value of the timber and range resources available for income upon the national forests where the roads or trails are constructed. Beginning with the next fiscal year after an agreement is made between the Secretary of Agriculture and a state, territory, or county for the cooperative construction of such roads, ten per cent of all revenues from such forest are to be applied toward reimbursing the U. S. government for funds expended in road work until the whole amount shall have been returned.

Purpose of Forest Road Building.
The objects sought thru federal aid to roads in the national forests are thus explained by the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report for 1915 in which he recommends such legislation as well as federal aid to rural post roads:

"The real agricultural problem within and near the forests is to make possible the successful occupancy and development of the lands that already have been opened to entry or actually patented. The mere private ownership of land does not insure successful use of it. In Oregon and Washington alone there are about 3,000,000 acres of logged-off land, much of it agricultural in character, now lying idle. In this condition speculative holding of the land for higher prices plays a large part. Another cause is the lack of transportation facilities. A settler may clear land and raise crops upon it, but he is helpless if he cannot market them. There are great areas of fertile land unused today on this account. In many sections near the national forests pioneer conditions still exist. The population is small and the task of road building is beyond the means of the residents. There is little or no demand for timber and the receipts from the forests which go to the community are small. The fact that the public property is not subject to taxation makes such communities feel, and very justly, that the forests are not contributing enough to local development.

"This situation should be changed. Assistance should be given the building of roads to bring into productive use the resources of such regions. Therefore the suggestion contained in the last annual report is repeated, that upon a showing of public necessity appropriations be made for specific roads and similar improvements, to be charged against the state's future share of receipts from the forests. Such action would promote the local development of agriculture and other resources.

"To secure the maximum use of the lands still remaining in Federal ownership, further legislation is needed. There must be a constructive program which will promote development and safeguard public interests. The aim should be to make these properties more useful, available to greater numbers, and effectively instrumental in building up industries."

NORTH PAYS FOR SOUTH- ERN EXTRAVAGANCE

Taxpayers in the Northern States would do well to ponder the statement made to the Members of Congress the other day by ex-Speaker Cannon, in replying to a question of Congressman Jack Garner of Texas. Mr. Cannon declared that a member on the Democratic side had said to him: "Well, it does not make any difference how we vote for expenditures you fellows North have got to pay them." When Southern Democrats speak of the North they include the West as well.

The remark of that Democrat to Mr. Cannon, exactly describes the attitude of the majority in Congress today. It is the old story of the two men who divided the cow, one getting the half which carried the head, and the other taking the half which held the udder. The first man had to feed the cow; the second man got all the profits. When the cow hooked number two, number one had to pay damages. In this instance the Federal Treasury is the cow, and the South controls the southern half of the animal.

The thirteen states, California, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin, had a population in 1910 of nearly 51,000,000, and they cast a vote of over 9,700,000 in 1912. The capital stock employed by these 13 states in 1915 aggregated over $14,000,000,000; salaries and wages paid out amounted to over $3,350,000,000, and the value of manufactured products to over $15,500,000,000, annually. These states paid $65,000,000 of the $80,000,000 collected from the corporation and income tax during the fiscal year, 1915, and they pay over 75 per cent of the taxes laid by the "war revenue measure."

The thirteen states, Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia, had a population in 1910 of 24,250,000 and they cast a vote of 1,818,000. The capital stock employed by these 13 states in 1915 aggregated $1,690,000,000, salaries and wages paid out amounted to about $407,000,000, and the value of manufactured products to $1,908,000,000, annually. These thirteen states paid less than $5,000,000 of the amount collected from corporation and income taxes for the fiscal year 1915, and their contribution to the war tax was unimportant.

The South has had its fling during the past four years. They have controlled practically all of the important committee chairmanships in Congress: President Wilson is a sectionalist, and so is the Secretary of the Treasury, McAdoo. The Comptroller of the Treasury, John Skelton Williams is also sectionalistic in his views, and it is due to McAdoo and Williams that so much favoritism has been shown to the South by the Federal Reserve Board. There has never been such a pork regime in the history of Congress, and the smear of the mind is found on all our important legislation since 1913.

In the 13 Northern and Western States are to be found the bulk of our great manufacturing industries, which were so sorely wounded by the Democratic tariff law. The 13 Southern states are largely agricultural. On such things as rice and angora goat hair the Southern Congressmen who framed the tariff bill left a duty, but the farmers of the North and West got undiluted free trade on their products. The people of the North and West stand for "America First." The Administration and the legislators sent to Washington from the South, stand for "Dixieland First." To the extent that a part controls the whole of this country, our Americanism is "tainted," to use President Wilson's expression. The Republican party stands for the whole country, not for one section at the expense of all the others.

SOCIALIZING OF OUR EMOTIONS

An Educator Discusses Childhood, Recommending That Women
Turn Their Emotional Forces
Toward Child Welfare.

DR. THOMAS D. WOOD, Columbia university, in a recent interview stated:

"To make the enormous emotional forces of women do constructive work is the problem of the future, for it is woman who will have to be the leader in social parenthood. I concede that woman has the greater genius for parenthood, but men and women alike just outgrow the ideal of tiger parenthood—the parents that fight for their own young at the expense of other young."

"Women are developing tremendously as social parents. The ideal of social parenthood, of universal mother and fatherhood, finds its expression in the Big Brother and Big Sister movement and in social settlements. Men must learn from women, and women must learn from men. I believe in woman suffrage not because I think it will work any social miracles, but because it will educate women."

"Men in the trenches in Europe today get better care than the children of America. Generally speaking, pigs and other live stock receive more intelligent treatment than children. Yet children are the greatest investment of a nation."

"The care of children is not a lost art, for the human race has never known how to care for its young. More human beings die annually from preventable diseases and accident than were killed in any year of the civil war."

"Child preservation is an art we are just finding. We have made mental education compulsory. Eventually we shall realize that the education of the body, the training of the instincts and emotions, is just as important as the cultivation of the mind."

"There are more than 20,000,000 school children in the United States today," Dr. Wood went on. "Of these three-quarters, or 15,000,000, need medical attention for physical defects which are partially or completely remediable."

"Among these defects are spinal curvature, defective vision or hearing, flat feet, enlarged tonsils and adenoids. At least 50 per cent, in some schools 98 per cent, have defective teeth, and at least a quarter of the number suffer from malnutrition. These children are the wards of the nation, more particularly the wards of its women."

"There should be some way of converting the tremendous emotional forces of women into energies which will save the children."

"But you know women can't rationalize their emotions until they de-moralize them," said the interviewer. "So long as a woman's emotions are her stock of trade, the things by which she gets a living, she can't be rational."

"I think I subscribe to that," Dr. Wood acknowledged, "but enormous creative powers are wasted in the emotions of women. I do not think there is much in the theory that women fundamentally lack creative ability. Women have spent their creative energies emotionally in forms not yet recognized as art; that's all."

Kitchen Convenience.

Keep a high wooden stool, with strong rungs, in your kitchen. When you have something to cook on the gas stove which needs continuous stirring bring it over and sit down, resting your feet on the rungs. When the cooking is done you will get up much refreshed. Use it when you have vegetables to prepare.

ATTRACTIVE FOOD.

It is not always realized that the way food is served has a great deal to do with our appreciation of it.

Color schemes often attract the eye and stimulate the appetite for a dish ordinarily refused.

One Sunday night recently a certain housewife had some friends for supper, and afterward the wife of the man who had eaten most heartily of every dish said, "Well, I have a good joke on you, John." Then, turning to her hostess, she said, "You know, he never eats codfish or beets or eggs, and he has eaten all three

tonight with the greatest gusto."

"Well, they looked so pretty I couldn't help eating them," John replied.

The codfish was just plain creamed, but it was prepared in the individual ramekin dishes, and the delicately browned top was sprinkled with parsley.

The salad dish was bedded with fresh, green lettuce leaves, on which rested a ring of finely chopped beets. On the inner side of this sprays of the tender little inner stalks of celery were placed, within this a round of egg yolks, also finely chopped, and in the center the whites, dotted with a few strings of watercress.

the Power behind the dough

You may use an old favorite recipe and the best of materials and make it carefully, the oven may be just right, yet you will have a failure if "The Power behind the Dough" is not the right one to leaven it properly and make it light, digestible, wholesome.

Good baking without good baking powder is out of the question. K. C. Baking Powder has wonderful leavening power, and the double action—in the bowl and in the oven—makes good results doubly certain.

Take no chances of failure—use K. C. and have "good luck" every time. At all Grocers.

Escape TOOTH Troubles

—by keeping your teeth REALLY CLEAN.
"But," you say, "I brush my teeth regularly, yet they decay." Yes, you brush them, but do you REALLY CLEAN them? Tonight, after brushing your teeth, examine them closely. You will likely find an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding in the crevices.

Decay, as well as the dangerous gum disease called Pyorrhea, usually develops only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present. SENRECO, the formula of a dental specialist, keeps the teeth REALLY CLEAN. It embodies specially prepared soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Moreover, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea.

Go to your dealer today and get a tube of Senreco—keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay. Send 4c to Senreco, 304 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio, for liberal-sized trial package.

HOW TO MANAGE YOUR COLD

WEATHER VENTILATION.

It is easy enough to ventilate the house in warm weather. One simply leaves most of the windows open most of the time. To be sure, we are often assured by scientists that this method does not ventilate. We are even told that the air out of doors is not always ventilated. But we manage to thrive in the closeness of the outdoor atmosphere, and we manage to feel comfortable if we get a good deal of this atmosphere into our houses. However, unless our houses are equipped with a system of artificial ventilating, open windows form the best means of ventilating. It is, of course, a matter settled nowadays that we sleep with open windows, one open at the top, one at the bottom. In this way we keep our bedrooms well aired. And in the house where the bedrooms serve only for sleeping rooms the windows should be left open as much as possible during the day. Children especially should sleep in rooms that have been well ventilated throughout the day. In the case of stormy weather too much of the outdoors sometimes comes into the windows, even of our bedrooms. There are various methods of keeping this weather out. In case of too strong winds cheesecloth screens answer the purpose. For these just cover a regular screen frame with a couple of thicknesses of cheesecloth. Then put it in place. Weatherboards to put in partially open windows are also admirable. These make ventilation possible without creating a very big draft.

DENTAL HYGIENE.

How to Have Well Kept Teeth That Last a Lifetime.

We cannot all have small, even, white teeth, but we can all have perfectly kept teeth. A careful mother begins the attention to her children's teeth as soon as they push through the gums. She cleans them with a bit of absorbent cotton on the end of her scrubbed finger, and as the child grows older she brushes them. Nowadays all the teeth of all school children are inspected, which will result in better teeth, with no false teeth before the age of fifty, except under unusual conditions.

The teeth should be brushed after every meal and cleaned with a paste at least every other day. Do not use any of the powders that are gritty, however cleansing they may be. Teeth cannot be treated the same as a bathtub. Always after eating anything every particle of food should be removed from between the teeth with dental floss. This is really the only safe means of dislodging foodstuff. Brush up and down on the surface of the teeth, not across. Gritty powders in time destroy the enamel, and brushing across the grain has the same effect. Brush the inner side of the teeth as thoroughly as the outer, being careful to cleanse the mouth well. Now, the average woman is apt to feel she has done her duty when the teeth are brushed. This is not true. A mouth wash is just as necessary. Rinse the mouth daily with any good alkali wash.

How to Cover Buttons to Match Your Frock.

Do you cover your own buttons? It means a saving and gives variety to a costume. It can be done by crochet stitches or by needlework as well as by bits of fancy silk, too insignificant for any other use. Objections have been heard on the score that the result is not as satisfactory as professional work, but the answer to that is the injunction to do all the work neatly. Slipshod methods are to be condemned everywhere, although, to be sure, time is wasted in the inside finish of frocks. Even expensive dressmakers have taken a hint from Paris and concentrated on externals.

How to Develop the Art of Saving Gas When You Cook.

To get the greatest amount of heat from a gas range and not waste gas the gas should not be turned any higher than will give a perfect blue flame. When the flame becomes a yellowish red the gas is being wasted and giving a heat that smokes and smudges cooking utensils and shortens their period of usefulness about one-half. In cooking have the flame about one-half inch of clear blue and after the article being cooked reaches the boiling point reduce the flame to only such a height as will keep it boiling. This also applies to oven jets.

How to Make Beauty Bags For Your Daily Bath.

Make the bags of cheesecloth about four inches square, or a little larger and fill them loosely with the following mixture: Oatmeal (not rolled oats), a pound; powdered orris root, a quarter of a pound; almond meal, a quarter of a pound; powdered castile soap, four ounces. A few drops of oil of verbena may be added if liked.

How to Wash Pongee So That It Looks Like New.

Wash a pongee garment or material in a warm suds of white soap and hang it out until bone dry. Under no consideration ever sprinkle it. Iron it on the wrong side, and you will find it retains its luster and looks like new.

New Discovery
Stops Dandruff

"Vola-Vita," Great Hair Discovery.

Vola-Vita is the new hair surprise to millions. To eradicate dandruff has been a riddle for decades. The new, scientific hair discovery, Vola-Vita, actually stops it. There is only one way to eradicate dandruff and that is to kill the dandruff germ.

Vola-Vita kills the dandruff germ quickly and thoroughly. It has been a common occurrence for Vola-Vita in only a few weeks' time to eradicate dandruff in cases so severe that the scalp was one mass of scaly crusts, falling like a snow-storm when the hair would be disheveled with the fingers.

Hair has been analyzed and is found to contain five vital substances. Unless these are in correct quantities, hair loses its vigor. It dies, falls out, turns gray, dandruff and baldness result. When the missing substances are restored, a remarkable change results. Vola-Vita restores these missing substances so wonderfully that hair quickly begins to grow lavishly, even on shiny bald heads. Dandruff promptly and surely vanishes, and more remarkable still, the original color of the hair—whether it was black, brown or red—is restored to any gray, faded or bleached hair, without dye or stain.

Vola-Vita contains no alcohol to dry up hair secretions and injure hair growth. There is no other hair treatment in the world like it. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"You certainly have a preparation that performed a miracle in my case. My head has been a perfect crust of dandruff and when I combed it my wife invited me out on the back porch. After three applications of Vola-Vita my head was as clear of dandruff as the palm of my hand."—C. D. Clem, Chouteau, Kans.

"Vola-Vita" is sold at all drug stores in 5c and 15c bottles, or sent direct by Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. The 15c bottle contains 2 1/2 ounces as much as the 5c size.

Sold in Jacksonville by C. L. DePew, J. A. Obermeyer and son, Lee P. Allcott Armstrong's Drug Store, Cogover and Shreve, J. A. Long and Gilbert's pharmacy.

CENTENNIAL PLANS FORM RAPIDLY

SPRINGFIELD'S BIG FUND FOR STATE BUILDING COMPLETED.

Commission has Issued Booklet Emphasizing Importance of Anniversary—Celebration Programs Are Suggested.

Springfield has completed a fund for the erection of an Illinois centennial building of $101,400. When the arrangement was made that the state appropriate $159,000 for the proposed building it was on the condition that Springfield first raise $100,000. Thus it will be seen that the Springfield people have more than made their pledge and $4,000 or $5,000 is yet to be turned in.

When the centennial exposition is held in 1918 agricultural and manufacturing progress of the state will be demonstrated in a large way. One of the important features will be a historical pageant which will depict in artistic way the progress made by the state in a century of time. Still another important feature will be the dedicatory program of the beautiful centennial building which is to be erected. The centennial commission has just issued a booklet of suggestions for county and local celebration of the centennial anniversary. The book contains also a brief sketch of the movement which provided for the proper celebration of the anniversary. The facts as set forth in the booklet and some program suggestions are printed herewith.

The act creating the Illinois Centennial Commission directs it to arrange for and conduct a celebration in honor of the State's Centennial.

The Commission plans for an impressive centennial observance by the official Government of the State of Illinois at the State Capital, and also hopes to arouse the counties, cities and towns of the State to celebrate the centennial year in their respective localities, officially, assisted by their local bodies of education, social and commercial organizations.

For this latter purpose a letter has been sent by the commission to certain county officials in each county, calling upon them to organize their counties for planning local centennial celebrations in 1918.

It is the earnest desire of the commission to do everything in its power to promote an adequate and dignified observance of the Illinois Centennial Celebration and it has arranged a general plan as outlined in the following pages.

Centennial Memorial Publications

In accordance with the general policy of marking the centennial year by work of permanent value, the commission has made arrangements for the publication of a Centennial History of Illinois, which is expected to appear in 1918. The plan, as adopted by the first commission in 1913 and recently confirmed by the present commission, provides for a history of the State from the beginning of European colonization to the present time, with some introductory account of the Indian aboriginal population. The first volume will cover the periods of French and British dominion, the Revolution, and the territorial period, closing with the admission of Illinois as a State in 1818. The second volume entitled, "The Frontier State," will cover the first thirty years of statehood; volume III the era of sectional controversy and civil war; and the last two volumes will bring the narrative down to date, with special attention to industrial development and governmental problems. The whole series is under the editorial supervision of Professor Clarence W. Alvord of the State University, who is well known to students of Illinois history as the editor of the "Collections of the Illinois State Historical Library." In addition to this comprehensive history, the commission expects to publish this year a special volume entitled, "Illinois in 1818."

In planning this series of publications, emphasis is laid on the importance of so telling the story that it shall be not only scientific in spirit, and accurate in its presentation of facts, but also interesting to the general reader.

Centennial Memorial Building

The General Assembly has already recognized the propriety and importance of a building to commemorate the one hundred anniversary of Illinois as a State of the Federal Union, by appropriating funds for the purchase of land to be used as the site for such a building. This building is much needed on account of the crowded condition of the Capitol, and the proposed Centennial Memorial Building should contain all the features that have been planned for it from the standpoint of the State's needs as a practical office building, and also be a magnificent memorial, providing adequately for the historical collections of the State's, its archives and other collateral interests.

It is now too late for such a building to be completed and dedicated as a part of the centennial celebration, but it can be begun and well on its way toward completion and can show at that time that Illinois has not forgotten to provide a lasting and beautiful memorial of its first century of progress as a Sovereign State of the Union.

Historic Statues and Markings

It is the opinion of the commission that it is not desirable to include in the work of the official celebration, by the State, a large number of statues of monuments. It seems best that this matter be largely left to the particular counties or cities who may recognize in the centennial year, men who have been especially associated with such localities. The commission desires, however, to give its cordial endorsement and support to the plans inaugurated by the Forty-eighth General Assembly, and now being carried on by the State Art Commission for the erection of statues in commemoration of Lincoln and Douglas on the Capitol grounds. We would further suggest the desirability of making preparations at this time for a monument or tablet especially recognizing the services of Nathaniel Pope, territorial delegate in Congress at the time of the admission of Illinois into the Union, to whom the chief credit for the passage of the enabling act in its final form is due.

Publicity.

Since publicity is the one thing necessary to the successful success of Centennial Celebration, a special committee on publicity has been appointed. This committee working in conjunction with the other committees, especially the State-wide and Publication Committees, hopes to attract the attention of the public to the celebration in 1918 so that every man, woman or child in the State will not only know the general facts of the celebration, but will be familiar with its details.

Much work has already been done to prepare the way for this publicity, especially in communications to the newspapers of the States. Over 20,000 news items relating to the activities of the commission and the centennial plans have been furnished the newspapers of Illinois and neighboring states and it seems a reasonable assumption that there can hardly be any one within the State whose attention has not been called to the approaching centenary.

Beginning in the fall of 1916 the newspaper propaganda will be renewed and publicity will be sought thru many channels, especially thru public and private schools, teachers' institutes, and by public addresses given by members or representatives of the Centennial Commission. No effort will be spared to bring before the people of the State the fact that the Centennial is fast approaching and that it must be celebrated in a manner befitting the occasion.

The press has already taken up the work with great interest the schools and other agencies will no doubt generously respond and the committee looks forward without misgivings that its work will be a big factor in the success of the centennial celebration.

The Celebration at the State Capital

It is planned to make the celebration at the State Capital an event of State-wide significance and historical importance. An important feature will be the Centennial Exposition displaying the agricultural and manufacturing progress of the State with its varied resources. There will also be a Historical Pageant, setting forth graphically and with artistic beauty the wonderful development that has been attained in a hundred years of progress. It is the purpose of the commission to make the Dedicatory Program particularly impressive and one of the principal features of the centennial observance. An effort will be made to interest other states of the Union in this program, and because of the world-famed characters that Illinois has produced, it is not unlikely that other nations may send representatives to participate in this event.

It is probable that the celebration at the State Capital will be held during the first two weeks of October 1918. The sixth of October, the day upon which the first Governor of Illinois was inaugurated, will be observed in a special manner. It is suggested that the county celebrations be not held during these two weeks, as it is greatly desired that all the people of the State may be free during this period to attend the great celebration at Springfield.

Local Celebrations Thruout the State

It is apparent that it would be impossible to hold the attention of six millions of people for one day or to assemble them at one place for the celebration, hence it is suggested that the county be made the unit, and organized for the celebration as outlined in a letter recently sent by the commission to certain county officials.

Suggestions For County Celebrations

The celebration in your county may well take the place in 1918 of your County Fair, Old Settlers' Day or other annual event, or it may be held in connection with the same.

It is important that there shall be something permanent in connection with your celebration, so that when all else shall have been forgotten with reference thereto, there shall remain some permanent memorial, that your county had a part in this great event. This may be a statue of some important citizen of the county. In such case the local committee should communicate with the State Art Commission, who will be glad to cooperate. Perhaps a boulder, appropriately inscribed, may be placed to mark some historic place or event, such as an Indian battle or engagement, or a debate. An historic road or trail may be appropriately marked.

Relics of pioneers citizens and places may be gathered and exhibited with authentic accounts as to where when and by whom they were brought into the county or of what they formed a part.

A complete list of the authors, painters, sculptors and other notables of the county may be made, together with biographical data and portraits of such persons.

A permanent room or building may be secured and dedicated for the preservation and display of all historical collections.

A competent person should be secured to write the history of religious organizations that now are, or have been in the county and as far as possible these histories should be illustrated. Enlist the pupils of the higher grades of the schools of your county to write a history of the county of not more than two thousand words. This might be a competition and prizes offered for the best history. It would be well to have the reading of the prize essay a feature of the county celebration. A copy of this history should be sent to Mrs. Jessie Palmer Weber, Springfield, Ill., Secretary of the Centennial Commission.

If there is not now a satisfactory history of the county, it would be well to have one written by some one competent to do the work.

There may be held at the county seat, or the largest city in the county, as the general committee may determine, an historical pageant reviewing the county's history. The scenario for this may well be written by some one in the county. In case a pageant is determined upon, Mrs. Jessie Palmer Weber, Chairman of the Pageant Committee of the Centennial Commission, can give valuable suggestions.

In order that every community may have a part in the celebration, every public and private school in the county should set apart one day when appropriate exercises will be held.

It is also suggested that the ministers of the county be requested to present historical addresses or sermons on the Sunday preceding the county celebration.

Time of Celebration.

It is the plan of the Illinois Centennial Commission to have the State ablaze thruout 1918 with its celebration and in order that this may be, it will be well for each County Centennial Association to take up the matter of time with the chairman of the State-wide Celebration Committee in order that there may not be conflicting dates between neighboring counties. By the proper arrangement and assignment of dates it will be possible to have, during the entire summer and fall months celebrations thruout the State.

Celebrations may be planned for one or more days, preferably from two to four days. As your plans progress you will see the necessity of having adequate time to properly bring before the people all that pertains to the life of your county and State.

It is probable that the celebration at the State Capital will occur during the first two weeks in October, 1918. Weather conditions are likely to be favorable at that season, and it will be the duty and privilege of all citizens of the States to aid in this great celebration, festival and jubilee.

The University of Illinois will at this time celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its organization with great and impressive ceremony, and it is expected that this will be a part of the State's observance of its Centennial.

If the people of the State appreciate the significance and grandeur of the occasion and a united effort is made to observe it in a manner appropriate to its importance, the Illinois Centennial will present to the world a celebration which will be the greatest of its kind ever given in America and it will be a standard for the younger states to attempt to equal when their centennial anniversaries occur.

Some suggestions for a program for local centennial celebrations which are to continue for two or more days.

"ATTLE OF BUENA VISTA
Field of the battle and the slain, When Santa Anna's host combined, To wreck old "Rough and Ready's" line.

But Santa Anna was so much confounded,
With hundreds gilled and thousands wounded,
He left his dying and his dead,
And, cowardly, in the night time fled.

Yes Santa left the bloody fray;
And for San Louis took his way.
To gather troops he does intend
Again his broken lines to mend.

But we do hope against that day
A little stronger game to play,
We will have more soldiers in the fight,
And whip old Santa out of sight.

There are Pennsylvania and Ohio boys,
Old Kentucky and brave Illinois
Our glory is to fight for fun
And make old Santa Anna run.

And there is brave Mississippi too,
Who fear or danger never knew,
Who fought in bloody Monterey,
And bore the hottest of the fray.

And there is brave old "Rough and Ready,"
Who cries "My boys be always steady,
And never fire 'till you have good aim,
And then let loose on them again."

And there is brave old General Wool
Whom the boys thought so long a fool.
A brave old General in the field,
Who'd rather die than run or yield.

I'll name another in my song,
Whom we often tho't so wrong,
And that is Col. Churchill, brave,
Who stood, the doubtful day to save.

And there is Washington a soldier good,
Who in the bloodiest conflict stood
And with his light artillery,
Saved many a time the doubtful day.

And now to tell the truth indeed,
All did fight and freely bled,
Except a few, who ran to save,
A worthless carcass from the grave.

I do not intend to mention names,
Altho I care not whom it shames,
For fear they might in course of time,
Act bravely and blot out my rhyme.

Here's health to those who bravely stood,
And fought the foe thru fire and blood.
Bad luck to those who basely run
And would not stay to see the fun.

This poem was written by a soldier during the war with Mexico. It was made available for publication at this time by Mrs. Sarah Hill of Franklin, widow of the late Isaac Hill, a Mexican veteran.

A dozen years ago there appeared in the East a new light. Since then millions of readers of newspapers and magazines have come to know "Carlotta," "Giuseppe" and "Tony," not as dumb and soulless "dagwood," but as honest, industrious, lovable, but new-made Americans; and myriads of delighted readers have welcomed, too, the clever Irish poems from the pen of America's newest dialectician, Thomas Augustine Daly, while hundreds of audiences have heard Mr. Daly in author's recitals and humorous addresses.

His speaking tours are a series of ovations. His programs are in the nature of monologue recitals. They are personal experiences of reminiscences, admirably bringing out the dominant traits of his much-loved Italian and Irish neighbors, woven in with his own inimitable stories capably told and recitals of his own poems and impersonations of the characters who speak. These characters are real and human. There is no surfeit of pathos, for gentle humor is in every line.

His Most Popular Lecture.

Mr. Daly's most popular lecture is "New Neighbors," which is a philosophical and humorous discourse, dealing largely with the Irish and Italian characters which figure so prominently in his various books of poetry. Interspersed thru the monologue are such famous Irish ditties as "Kitty's Graduation," "Corndhuinn," "The Man's the Man," and the still more famous Italian poems, "Padre Angelo," "Mia Carlotta," "The Besta Friend," "The Blossomy Barrow," "Leela Giorgio Washinton," "Da Sweet Soil" and many others. MAYO CLINIC AT ROCHESTER A WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT

Eighty Five Surgeons Regularly Employed There—Three Hundred Operations a Day—Dr. Mayo Coming Here for Physicians Picnic

It was just about twenty-five or thirty years ago that Dr. William Mayo, who had just graduated from the medical department of the University of Michigan, stood one night on a street corner discussing the future with another young medical graduate. "I intend to be one of the foremost surgeons of this country," young Dr. Mayo said to his intimate friend. The statement did not make a very great impression on the friend at that time as he probably thought his chances of greatness were just about equal to those of Dr. Mayo. The statement is interesting now, however, as it gives some indication of what an ideal persistently pursued may result in.

Dr. Mayo is to be the speaker at the picnic of physicians of Morgan and Cass counties to be held on Dr. Black's farm August 17. The positive information that the great surgeon would come was received Wednesday by Dr. Black.

Their Father a Physician.

Dr. Mayo is about fifty-five years of age and his brother, Dr. Charles Mayo, is a few years younger. They are the sons of Dr. James Mayo, long a practitioner in the little town of Rochester, Minn. The elder Mayo in earlier days occupied a position in Rochester and community very similar to that held by the late Dr. David Prince in Jacksonville for many years. The elder Mayo had a consulting practice extending into quite a wide territory around Rochester. Because of the special need for a hospital there as the result of an epidemic Dr. Mayo influenced the Dominican Sisters to establish St. Mary's hospital in Rochester. At the time of his death both of the sons were practicing and thru their ideals, ability and industry the great Mayo clinic of today has been built up. Twenty-five years ago the two of them had charge of the work and today there are eighty-five surgeons who have part in the Mayo clinic. St. Mary's hospital is a small one, there are but two hundred beds there. Yet the record of this hospital, which cares only for major operations, is an average of 300 patients a day. In Rochester there are a number of hotels owned by the Mayo corporation and each of these hotels is in reality a hospital equipped with operating room and the necessary arrangements for hospital work.

When a patient goes to Rochester application is first made at the splendid building which houses the offices of the corporation. Then after interviewing a series of clerks the patient is eventually assigned to the particular hotel or hospital best equipped for the particular ailment. All sorts of surgical cases reach the Mayo clinic. In earlier years a unique system of business was in effect and the charge for every operation was $100, no matter how simple or how difficult it might be. Subsequently this plan was changed and the fees charged now are based somewhat upon the seriousness of the operation performed and also to some extent upon the ability of the person operated upon to pay.

Do Not Believe in Fortune.

The Mayo clinic makes a vast amount of money each year but the Mayo brothers often quote their father and are seeking to reach up to the ideal he had of not accumulating money. The older Mayo often said that a man had no right to accumulate money in a large way. So his sons have sought to carry out this idea. For a number of years it was their custom to give ten per cent of all their net earnings to the city of Rochester. Then, after following this practice for some time they found they had accumulated a surplus of $55,000. This sum was placed in the hands of a trust company, invested and added to so rapidly that a few years ago it had reached more than the $2,000,000 mark. This money has been given to the state of Minnesota for the special purpose of establishing a school for graduate study in surgery. It is certain that this institution will be located at Rochester and with such a sum of money available for equipment, it is certain it will be the finest in the world for such a purpose.

The Clinic Plan.

The Mayo clinic is incorporated and every physician, surgeon and employee is on a salary basis. Medical graduates go there for special three years of work, and to receive an appointment to the Mayo clinic signifies the good record which a medical student has made. For the first year of such service the interne receives a salary of $600 and that year the entire time is spent in the laboratories. The second year the salary is $900 and the young physician secures experience in the examination of patients and thus in diagnosis. The third year the salary is advanced to $1200 and the interne devotes the time to surgical work. In this way the clinic is of very great value in the medical and surgical world. In an institution of such size a splendid business organization is essential and this has been worked out with such accuracy that the corporation knows just exactly what is the average cost per person for diagnosis and just what the average cost of other details.

Dr. William Mayo lives in a home of just about the same size and furnishings as some of the larger homes in Jacksonville. He is a tireless worker and allows himself only the amount of time for vacation which he considers desirable for rest and recreation. The younger brother lives somewhat more pretentiously at a beautiful country place not far from Rochester and is just as earnest a worker. The Doctors Mayo have presented a wonderful example of what can be done by vision, combined with consistent effort.

The attendance at the annual picnic on the Black farm this year is likely to be larger than at any time in the past, as Dr. Mayo will discuss some practical theme and is so seldom to be heard away from the Rochester clinic.

SOME FARM THEMES.

DRAGGING BETWEEN

CORN ROWS. Austin Patterson is a Morgan county farmer who believes in additional cultivation for corn during dry weather in order to preserve what moisture there is in the ground. As a result of this theory he has dragged with horse power a heavy iron wheels thru his cornfields. The corn is 8 1/2 high by this time that only one horse can be used for the work and it is mighty hot work at that. Some farmers use a one-row cultivator with the same purpose in view, but Mr. Patterson and a number of other farmers have secured the best results to a season of this kind by simply hitching to an iron wheel of size which can be dragged down a corn row without injuring the plants. The result of this dragging is that the cracks in the ground are filled and a sort of dust mulch formed and the ground retains the moisture much better than if no work had not been done.

Mr. Patterson's farm is just a short distance south of Ebenezer church and there he is feeding thirty head of steers which he purchased at St. Louis a little more than a month ago. The steers are thin, averaging only about 650 lbs., when he bought them and notwithstanding the hot weather and the flies which are inevitable at this season of the year, the steers seem to be making fair gains. He bought them with the purpose in mind to keep them on grass for about three months and then to ship them or to sell to some stockman who makes a practice of finishing cattle for the market.

Mr. Patterson keeps thorough Poland China pigs on his farm and he is rated as one of the most successful of the younger farmers in his part of the county. He keeps in touch with the various methods of farming and stock raising advocated by the agricultural schools and applies the principles and methods which he thinks fit in with the particular conditions on his farm.

The idea of dragging or single row plowing in order to form a mulch for the retaining of moisture is not new to farming methods hereabout as some farmers have followed the practice for fifteen or twenty years, but the number of farmers using the method has greatly increased within the past three years.

Black Oats.

I cannot name any variety of black oats that would be more dependable year after year than the white varieties now grown in northern Illinois, says L. C. Brown in The Farmers' Review in answer to a correspondent. True, several years ago black oats did exceedingly well in some sections, but they were not consistent yielders, and after a few years farmers quit growing them altogether. I do not consider them any more hardy than other varieties and during a period of ten years they have never out-yielded other varieties.

Oat growing is still puzzling the majority of growers, for after trying every new sort we have no one variety that is much superior to all others, and no variety that will suit all soil conditions. I believe that it is largely a matter of soil conditions, and that the sensible thing to do is to stick to some good sort that has proved dependable four years out of five. Oat yields will vary just so long as our system of cropping is carried on as it is commonly done. Oats cannot adjust themselves to soil conditions as readily as corn, and changing conditions of soil affect oats favorably or adversely as the case may be.

Only $1 Puts This New Hoosier In Your Home on the Famous Hoosier Plan

Prices Will Advance When this Allotment Is Gone.

Before the coming prices take effect, you may choose between the new "Hoosier Wonder" pictured here or one of the other celebrated Hoosiers—"Hoosier Beauty," "Hoosier Special" or "Hoosier De Luxe."

The terms of this Hoosier Plan in our store are these:

1. $1 puts the cabinet you choose in your home.
2. $1 weekly quickly pays for it.
3. The low Cash Price fixed by the factory prevails strictly.
4. No interest. No extra fees.
5. This sale is conducted under the direct supervision of the Hoosier Company.

Only by grasping this opportunity at once can you be sure of getting your cabinet on the Hoosier Plan—and at the present low prices.

You realize of course that these terms could not be offered except on a very limited number of cabinets.

WHY PRICES MUST BE INCREASED. 50,000 cabinets—the entire spring output of the Hoosier factory—were sold in six weeks after they announced their new models. In some cities women have been unable for several months to get this most popular style.

Now the factory has made up 20,000 more for July and August sales. The next lot, after these are gone, must be sold at higher prices. This is due to the increased cost of all raw material entering into their manufacture.

OUR SALE MAY CLOSE ANY DAY

If all the women who need the Hoosier should come for it tomorrow, our full allotment of Hoosier Cabinets would be taken before night and the sale would close. This happened in some towns during a similar sale two years ago. Yet, if women delay, the sale may last a week or more. But which now is best for you—to take chances and miss this opportunity, or come to our store tomorrow so you can find out about this cabinet and decide before too late?

Process of Changing Butter into Sweet Cream Enlarges Trade—Ice Cream Product in Demand.

The business of the Jacksonville creamery is moving along in a very satisfactory way and the number of customers shipping to the creamery has constantly increased. There are at least 1200 to 1500 farmers who now make regular shipments or who bring cream or butter fat to the creamery. By far the greater portion of the cream is shipped by rail. These facts were secured yesterday in a statement from Manager Potter.

The process by which the cream or butter fat is utilized at this season of the year is not understood by many people. Nearly all the receipts of the creamery are sour cream, which is made into butter. The next process is to put this butter into storage without coloring or the placing in cartons. Then a few days later the butter is mixed with sweet milk and put thru an emulsor. The temperature is raised to 180 degrees and the resulting product is a smooth sweet cream which is used especially in the manufacture of ice cream. This product is satisfactory for breakfast food or general table uses except that it has a slightly different taste from the usual raw cream because it has been subjected to the 180 degrees of heat. It is the most desired by ice cream manufacturers because of its uniform even quality.

In the past during the hot dry months the demand for raw cream has exceeded the supply. Now creameries are able by the method mentioned to produce sweet cream of just the right quality and in any quantity needed. The development of this business has been of great aid to the general business of the creameries and has also been very helpful to the manufacturers of ice cream in guaranteeing them a satisfactory supply of material. The local creamery is now manufacturing each day from 1200 to 1500 pounds of butter, nearly all of which a little later on is turned into sweet cream, and shipments are being made every day to ice cream manufacturers within a radius of fifty-five miles.

RI-COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL EVENT BRINGS HUNDREDS TO MEREDOSIA

Steamer Columbia Bears 1,000 from Beards town and Smaller Groups Attend from Other Towns.

With a thousand Sunday school pupils present from Beards town and smaller groups attending from various places in Scott, Brown, Pike and Morgan counties, the first annual tri-county picnic at Meredosia proved an excellent success. For three years past S. L. Von Fossen has conducted a Sunday school excursion from Beards town and from this custom the idea of the large gathering grew.

The principles of Pythianism and the interest of that order in works of uplift were touched upon by Judge Partlow, the principal speaker of the day, who stated that, had he known so many children were to be present, arrangements would have been made for bringing the children of the Pythian Orphan's home at Danville to attend the picnic. The address of welcome by the mayor was an impressive one. Mr. Von Fossen being presented with a massive key to the city. General regret prevailed that Judge John J. Brown of Vandalia and Eugene E. Bone of Springfield had found it impossible to attend.

The desire was expressed for a permanent organization of the Tri-County League and there is strong indication that the big picnic will be made an annual affair.

A number of candidates for office were present to attend the festivities. By 2 o'clock, when the program of the day was resumed, many office seekers had arrived by auto from various points.

The Meredosia Concert band, Mayor L. F. Berger, Rev. T. L. Hancock, G. W. Burris and Rev. Hoffman met the boat on its arrival and escorted the visitors to the city park where the following program was rendered:

BANKERS AND MERCHANTS MEET AT PARK TODAY.

Baseball Game Will Be Called This Afternoon at 4 O'clock—Lively Playing Will Be Order of the Day.

In tip-top trim for the game this afternoon, the Merchants and Bankers are both claiming a certain victory and all who attend the benefit baseball game at Nichols park are promised a contest of live interest.

On several occasions, work has been hampered at the kindergarten by lack of funds and the deficits of former times have been reduced by subscriptions and by other conventional ways and means. It was due to the initiative of the younger directors of the free kindergarten board that the baseball benefit plan was brought into use this year instead. It remains to be seen how well the public will support this method of securing the needed funds.

The official "dope sheet" describes each man as well prepared for the contest. Felix Farrell expects to be on the mound position before the game is over and has been taking daily exercise to keep in training. "Bill" Ayers, who plays center field for the bankers, is reputed to have a priscope, that he may recline at ease and at the same time watch the battle. Some consternation has been caused in the banker's team by news that Cass Ham, captain of the opposition, has an unknown pitcher he will spring.

The game will be called at 4 o'clock. The ladies have been selling a large number of tickets and indications for a big crowd are good.

CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS AND TENTS.

Subscribers for season tickets at One Dollar are requested to call for their tickets at their earliest convenience.

Persons desiring tents should be here as soon as possible.

RAILROAD PUBLICITY MAN A VISITOR IN THE CITY

Is Traveling Thru Various Illinois Counties to get Line on Conditions

H. P. Lowell, a representative of the Bureau of Railway Publicity of Illinois, is a visitor in Jacksonville. Mr. Lowell's mission is to find out local conditions as especially related to the railroads. The railroads a year or two ago adopted policy of publicity—that is, they proposed to in large measure take the public into their confidence and to let them know the exact facts about railroad operation. Possibly there may have been some selfish motive in the program because railroad managers had a feeling that an unjust sentiment had been created against the railroads because of the lack of knowledge of real working operations and conditions. Be that as it may, a great change came about and a lot of information about the railroads previously kept in the dark saw the light of day, and as a result more friendly relations between the public and the railroads have come about.

Mr. Lowell is one of a number of the representatives of the bureau who is going from city to city getting a line on city facts and getting the community viewpoint of the railroads. The purpose of his expedition is to find out if citizens have any special complaints against the railroads, whether or not these complaints are well founded and what can be done to better the conditions. Passenger service, freight service, track conditions, the conduct of railway employees, all come within the scope of the investigation and the hope of the railway managers is that, based on information thus secured, they may come nearer realizing their ideals of making the railroads good business properties and at the same time real servants of the people.

As a part of the work of the railway bureau it is planned to publish a weekly or semi-weekly paper which will print subject matter considered of general interest to various communities and further publicity for this subject matter will be sought by sending the publication to the newspapers throught the country. The experiment—if such it may be termed—is interesting, and the attitude assumed by the public will in large measure determine just what the extent of the publicity work will be.

Jacksonville Lodge No. 579 A. F. & A. M. will hold a stated meeting tonight at 7:30. All visiting brethren welcome.
